U. S. COMMITTEE WILL OPEN TVA INQUIRY TODAY

Group Plans Tour of All Projects.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Knoxville, Tenn., July 10.—[Special.]—The Tennessee Valley authority, the half billion dollar experiment in a planned society, will come under the personal scrutiny of a congressional committee tomorrow.

Dr. Arthur Morgan.

Charges of Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, deposed chairman, college president, engineer, and humanitarian, that the authority has engaged in a policy of misrepresentation, mismanagement, and deceit are the subjects of the investigation, which is expected to last through the summer and fall.

Committee to Tour Valley.

Senator Vic Donahey [D., O.], chairman of the investigating committee, tonight said that after the opening meeting tomorrow the committee will start Tuesday on a six day tour of the valley as far as Pickwick Landing dam, near Shiloh battlefield.

The object is to visualize the dams, hydroelectric power plants, fertilizer plants, and other TVA activities.

Chairman Donahey said that after this trip the committee will proceed to subpena witnesses and take testimony.

"Hearings will be open to any one, from the highest utility executive to the humblest citizen, who may want to give germane facts for or against the TVA," Donahey said.

Committee Members Arrive.

Members of the committee, which is composed of five senators and five representatives, began arriving here today. In addition to Senator Donahey the committee is composed of Representative James M. Mead [D., N. Y.], vice chairman; Senators Fred H. Brown [D., N. H.], H. H. Schwartz [D., Wyo.], Lynn J. Frazier [R., N. D.], and James J. Davis [R., Pa.], and Representatives William K. Driver [D., Ark.], Ewing Thomason [D., Tex.], Thomas A. Jenkins [R., O.], and Charles A. Wolverton [R., N. J.]. W. O. Heffernan of Ohio, an expert accountant, is secretary.

Suit Adds to Drama.

Drama is added to the investigation by the suit filed four days ago by Dr. Morgan in Knox county Chancery court challenging the right of President Roosevelt to oust him as chairman and asking that he be recognized as a director and chairman of the TVA.

From the outset of the controversy last March Dr. Morgan insisted that a congressional inquiry be made of the TVA, which is regarded as the greatest collectivist experiment of the Roosevelt administration. He charged dishonest management on the part of his colleagues, Harcourt A. Morgan and David E. Lilienthal.

President Roosevelt called the three directors before him at the White House in what was termed the most unusual meeting of its kind ever held in Washington. Dr. Morgan refused to submit the evidence to back his charges, declaring that the subject called for a congressional investigation and not for a White House conversation.

Accused of Contumacy.

In ousting Dr. Morgan President Roosevelt flung at him the unusual charge of contumacy. The dictionary defines the word as pertinacious resistance to authority, or being willfully disobedient to the order or summons of a court, or committing wilful contempt of court.

All three of the directors were heard by the congressional committee in Washington Dr. Morgan said then that in charging dishonest management of the TVA he did not mean his two fellow directors took bribes, chiseled money, or profited financially through any transaction. He accused them instead of deceiving the President, congress, and the public as to the affairs of the TVA, and this he held was not honest administration of the government's huge social experiment.

Directors Lilienthal and Harcourt Morgan made countercharges that

FIRE FIGHTING MONSTERS GIVE CHICAGO SAFETY

See Them at Work in Thrill Show.

THRILL PICTURES.

Turn to the back page of this issue for a page of action pictures of the mechanical marvels and the daring men of Chicago's fire department. Marvels and men will appear in the Police and Fire Thrill show at Soldiers' field next Sunday.

BY CHARLES LEAVELLE.

The summer and fall of 1871 were hot and dry. The heat had driven all moisture from the timbers of Chicago buildings. On a day early in October a fire started. A high southwest wind drove it northward until an appalling proportion of the city lay in ruins.

On May 19, 1934, under the same conditions, fire again started a disastrous march northward through Chicago. And, though the loss was in the millions, the conflagration was held to a comparatively small area.

Superior fire fighting equipment got the credit for this victory. But, just how superior that equipment was, the average citizen never knew. And so many new weapons have been added since then that even the equipment that stopped the stockyards fire now appears a little old fashioned.

Department to Parade Might.

Next Sunday in Soldiers' field at the Chicago Police and Fire Thrill show the fire department will be on parade in all its might. The average citizen will have the chance of seeing first hand the army of fearless men and the amazing machines that stand between him and his greatest enemy.

Half a million dollars' worth of these machines and 500 picked men will show him just how secure he is against fire. The heroism of Chicago firemen is legendary, but the machines with which they now work are not so well known. It is at these monsters of red and brass that the crowds probably will look first.

And they are monsters. The first of them to emerge in the grand parade around Soldiers' field will be the biggest and most modern pumper engine in the world. It was designed only after Anthony J. Mullaney, deputy chief fire marshal, and James Gleason, department engineer, had studied the newest types from coast to coast.

Big Machine 27 Feet in Length.

Known as the de luxe sedan pumper, it is twenty-seven feet long—four feet longer than any previous one—is eight feet high and eight feet wide. [Your automobile is nine or ten feet long and five feet high.] In the sedan section and cab enclosed in shatterproof glass there is room for an engineer, an officer, and six men. This machine also can carry 2,000 feet of hose.

The roar of its 225 horse power motor is earth shaking as it pumps 1,800 gallons of water a minute through four hose lines. It can throw a stream of water 180 feet in the air—the height of a sixteen story building! The same motor that does this is capable of driving the big sedan —22,400 pounds of it—as seventy-five miles an hour. It cost $18,000—about fifteen times what your car cost—but it is worth it.

Then observe the monster just behind it. This one is much longer than the pumper and looks like a great rolling jackknife. The upper part, which hangs far out ahead of the driver, will begin to rise as the machine emerges from the fire station on the field. This is a $22,000 water tower, developed to fight fires in tall buildings.

Top Nozzle 65 Feet High.

When it is upright the top nozzle will be sixty-five feet above the ground, ready to throw a high pressure stream into sixth and seventh floor windows. The lower nozzle is fifty feet above the earth and is operated by a man in a crow's nest. He can see directly into the heart of the flaming building. This secondary pipe and the crow's nest are inventions of Chicago's fire commissioner, Michael J. Corrigan. This improvement is known the country over as the Corrigan pipe.

Stand in that crow's nest some time when both nozzles are going—

Chants to Roar of Motors, and Music Is Born

BY MARCIA WINN.

John B. Vidach is 49. He is a little man with liquid brown eyes and thinning hair. And every night, from 5 p. m. until 3 a. m., he tends the machinery in the basement of the apartment building at 180 East Delaware place.

John B. Vidach.

These are the lonesome hours, when down in the great dark basement the only objects alive, other than John, are the engines and the turbines and the shining boilers. These John must watch constantly. He must oil them, clean them, and inspect them.

His Ears Pick Up Music.

When John first went to work there, four years ago, the vibrant darkness frightened him. A voluble Italian, born in Trieste, he was used to people, to their song and laughter. He had sold insurance and real estate, matters where the human element was of greatest importance.

But gradually, in his loneliness, his ears became attuned to the sounds of the machinery. To the whirr of the engines and the whishing hum of the belts, to the constant throbbing and pulsating of the turbines. And suddenly he began to sing.

John knew nothing of things the musicians deem important. He had never heard of the diatonic scale or 4/4 time.

All he knew was that as he listened to the voice of his engines, a melody formed in his mind. As it formed, he sang it in his strident tenor.

Writes Words to Fit Tunes.

When off duty at last, he would hurry upstairs to his little room where two fat canaries sang. Sitting down at his desk he laboriously wrote words to go with it.

Sometimes he wrote in Italian, but more often in English. When his critical ear was satisfied, he went down to a loop music store and sang them into what he called a "record machine."

John now has more than 100 little discs from the "record machine," each recording one of his songs. Twenty-two have been copyrighted, together with the scores, which a friend who knew more about musical notes than John, wrote for him.

Love and Laughter His Themes.

A prominent orchestra leader introduced one of John's compositions, "All the Way to the Land of Our Dreams," about a year ago. Another will be broadcast this week.

Strangely enough, the words of John's songs rarely deal with the machinery which inspired them. They are about love, laughter, and homes.

Why? John waves his hands and smiles.

"I have been disappointed in love and in the business trouble, too," he said. "It makes me happy to think and sing of happy people."

BRITISH KING SUFFERS ATTACK OF INFLUENZA; MAY DELAY PARIS TRIP

LONDON, July 10.—(AP)—King George VI. of Great Britain was disclosed tonight by an official announcement to be suffering from a mild attack of gastric influenza at the royal lodge in Windsor Great park. Unless the king makes a quick recovery it was believed his illness might force a second cancellation of plans for the royal state visit to France, scheduled to begin July 19.

The dice were honest. With them James Means of 2902 Maypole avenue said he won a $10 bill from Franklin Herman of 5436 Prairie avenue. It was the bill that Means didn't trust. He had Herman arrested yesterday on the charge that it was counterfeit. Both men are colored.

Yesterday was the warmest day experienced by Chicagoans in 1938, the mercury touching 91 at 5 p. m. The previous record for the year was 89.9 degrees last Thursday. Forecaster C. A. Donnel said that today would be generally fair and warm, with southerly winds continuing.

Reveal Horlick Heiress Drew Will Last April

TORONTO, Ont., July 10.—[Special.]—Mrs. Mabelle Horlick Sidley of Racine, Wis., who died last week at the Toronto home of W. Perkins Bull, made her last will and testament in Toronto three months before her death.

J. Fred Hollis of the Toronto legal firm of Hollis, Wisson & McNairn admitted here today that he drew the document last April.

"It was drawn by myself at the request of Mrs. Sidley," he said, "but I am not at liberty to reveal its contents. That is a matter for the executors and they all are residents of the United States."

Hollis declared Mrs. Sidley was perfectly normal and able to answer all questions with clearness and decision. He said she had solicitors in Racine, but that his firm always had done any legal work she wished done in Toronto. He last saw her late in June.

"I found her a keen business woman," said Hollis.

Son Retains Counsel.

Racine, Wis., July 9.—[Special.]—In his first public statement since the death of his mother, Mrs. Mabelle Horlick Sidley, last Wednesday, William Sidley tonight admitted that he had retained legal counsel, but denied it was for the purpose of obtaining a copy of his mother's will that he might learn its terms.

"Her will probably will turn up as a matter of course during the next week," he said. "I was notified when my mother had an attack a week before her death and I took a plane to fly to her bedside.

"After her death I requested an autopsy, but I know nothing of the investigation being conducted by the Canadian government into circumstances surrounding my mother's death.

"I have nothing further to say until after the funeral."

Double Funeral Services.

Double funeral services will be held tomorrow for Mrs. Sidley and her mother, Mrs. Arabella Horlick, widow of the malted milk magnate, who died yesterday.

Bishop J. Harwood Sturtevant, bishop of the Fond du Lac diocese and a friend of the Horlick family, will officiate at the services, which will be held at the mansion of Mrs. Horlick, adjoining the malted milk plant.

Mrs. Horlick was 88 years old Friday. Her daughter was 61.

AIR SPORTSMAN A RICH PLAYBOY WITH A PURPOSE

New York, July 10.—[Special.]—Howard Hughes, six months away from his thirty-third birthday, calls himself a sportsman aviator. His association with motion picture production and with Hollywood movie stars gained for him the name of a playboy with a purpose.

Howard Hughes.

Twelve years ago, when he took the 17 million dollars he inherited from his father and went to Hollywood, his purpose was to make pictures. In the last six years, however, his purpose has been to promote aviation.

Four years ago he founded the Hughes Aircraft company, and many of the planes with which he made aviation history have been the products of this plant. Whenever the planes he desired to use for experiments were made by other manufacturers, he took them to his plant and rebuilt them according to his own ideas. Airmen credit him with a sound, scientific knowledge of aerodynamics.

Born in Houston.

Hughes was born Dec. 24, 1905, in Houston, Tex., the son of Howard Robard and Helen G. Hughes.

His father made his fortune in the Texas oil fields. He invented an oil well drill and founded the Hughes Tool company to manufacture it. When he died in 1924, two years after the death of Mrs. Hughes, the business was turned over to Howard, who remained the operating head for two years.

Then he went to Los Angeles to live with his uncle, Rupert Hughes, the novelist, and engage in picture making.

His first venture was in financing a picture for another producer. After he learned a bit about how pictures were made he produced several for himself. His most pretentious picture was "Hell's Angels," made as a silent movie at a cost of 2 million dollars and remade with sound for 1½ millions. The picture increased Hughes' fortune by several millions.

Sets Flying Records.

Soon after Hughes turned to aviation he started making records as a speed flyer. In 1935 he set a land speed record of 352.388 miles an hour; a few months later he flew from Los Angeles to New York in 9 hours 26 minutes; a year later he flew from Los Angeles to Newark, N. J., in 7 hours 28 minutes at an average speed of 332 miles an hour.

In 1925 Hughes married Ella Rice of Houston. They were divorced four years later. His name has been linked romantically with a number of stage and screen actresses since.

The four men who make up Hughes' crew are considered experts in their fields. They are:

Ed Lund, 32 years old, a native of

HUGHES FRETS OVER DRAIN ON SUPPLY OF FUEL

Pilot Forced to Feed More Gasoline.

BULLETIN.

New York, July 11 (Monday).—(AP)—Howard Hughes reported at 4:25 a. m. (Chicago time) today he was approximately 2,000 miles from his takeoff field and traveling through broken clouds at an altitude of 9,600 feet. His position—53:30 north, 33:10 west—indicated he was 1,000 miles from Newfoundland and more than half way across the 1,900 mile ocean strip. His average speed was a fraction under 200 miles an hour.

BULLETIN.

New York, July 11 (Monday).—(Special.)—In a radio report at 1:30 a. m. (Chicago time) Howard Hughes expressed concern over the fuel consumption of the monoplane bearing him and four companions on a flight from New York to Paris. He said high temperatures made it necessary to increase the power of the ship's two engines.

"I hope we are going to get to Paris," Hughes said. "We don't anticipate landing short of the other side, however."

Flight advisers here took this to mean that Hughes saw a possibility he might not have enough fuel to get to Paris but was confident he could clear the stretch of water between St. John's, Newfoundland, and the coast of Ireland.

New York, July 10.—[Special.]—Howard Hughes, noted American flyer, and a crew of four men were over the Atlantic ocean tonight on a 3,600 mile flight to Paris. The monoplane took off from Floyd Bennett field at 6:20 o'clock [Chicago time].

Six hours later the flyers radioed that they had passed over Newfoundland slightly north of St. John's, some 1,180 miles from New York, and were striking out across 1,900 miles of open ocean. They said they were flying in rain at 7,400 feet at a speed of 192 miles an hour and that all was well.

Communication between the ship and its headquarters at the New York World's Fair had been disrupted for about an hour before this message. Hughes explained this was because the trailing antenna had broken and it was necessary to suspend communication while putting out a new one.

Ship Skims Tree Tops.

The ship, which with its load weighed 25,000 pounds, passed only a few feet above tree tops on the edge of the airport as it lifted into the air after a 45 second run down the runway.

Hughes was at the pilot's seat with Ed Lund, flight engineer, beside him. The other crew members, Harry Connor and T. L. Thurlow, navigators, and Richard Stoddart, radio engineer, were at their posts in the cabin behind.

The five airmen walked from the hangar only a minute or two before they took off. They waved to the 5,000 persons gathered at the field. Hughes gave his flying helmet a final tug, and all climbed into the plane.

Circles over Field.

As the ship taxied toward the runway preparatory to the takeoff a field mechanic ran to it and began banging on the door. Hughes stopped the plane after about fifty feet and a last minute package was handed aboard.

After the takeoff Hughes circled over the field at a low altitude, banked once, and headed northeast.

Hughes' hop to Paris is the first part of a proposed around the world flight via Moscow, Siberia, Alaska, and Canada. The young Texan will follow the great circle route across the Atlantic. The present part of his flight, if completed, will be the first nonstop hop from New York to Paris since Charles A. Lindbergh's epochal trip in 1927.

Hughes had planned to start yesterday afternoon, but the takeoff was delayed several times yesterday and today by motor trouble.

New Cylinders Installed.

Eighteen new cylinders had to be installed in the plane's two 1,100 horse power engines because the original cylinders had become somewhat pitted by the high octane gasoline used on the flight from California.

This, however, failed to remedy the difficulty and Hughes, who had hoped to be able to start at dawn today, was forced again to postpone the takeoff.

Finally the trouble was located in a defective magneto. Obtaining a new magneto and installing it, again testing the motors, and adjusting compasses took the better part of the day.

The purpose of the trip is to advertise the New York Fair [the plane bears the name New York World's Fair 1939] and probably an attempt by Hughes to break Wiley Post's around the world record of 7 days 18 hours and 49 minutes. It was expected that Hughes would make announcement of the world trip plans after reaching Paris. He expects to be in the French capital in about twenty-one to twenty-two hours. Lindbergh in his single motored plane made the distance in thirty-three hours.

Two Objectives of Flight.

Hughes said two of the objectives of the flight were a test of new radio equipment and an attempt to create as a sportsman a close bond and feeling of fellowship among flyers similar to that existing among amateur radio operators.

The plane is the result of many months of experimentation by some of the leading aeronautical men of the United States.

Its base is the new Lockheed 14, brought out last summer as the highest speed commercial transport in the world, with a top speed of 263 miles an hour.

When the commercial plane was announced, Hughes purchased the present model and called in a group of technicians. With them he held a conference in which he outlined the problems of his proposed flight.

As a result the technicians substituted for the regular engines the two specially supercharged motors now in the plane. To make the substitution efficient, many other details were altered to compensate for changes in weight distribution, flight characteristics, and other features of strength and performance.

Work Done in Secret.

After many months of drawing, building, stress analyzing, and test flying, the plane was ready and licensed. Then came long hours of calibrating its fuel consumption at various speeds and under all load conditions, months of experimenting with radio and navigation instruments, and more months of work in obtaining the necessary licenses, permits, and courtesy privileges for the flight. All the work was done with utmost secrecy.

The plane, with three short wave radios, has the most elaborate communications equipment ever used on a transoceanic hop. A large radio of seventeen frequencies operating on 333 to 22,000 kilocycles, another of eight frequencies for plane use, and a third set of fifteen watts will be operated throughout the trip.

Radio Is Waterproof.

The third radio, which was manufactured by Mr. Hughes' own company, is perhaps the most interesting. Only ten inches square and having four hours' reserve power in dry cell batteries, recent tests proved it could easily span the continent. It is waterproof.

The plane has a wing span of 65 feet and an overall length of 44 feet 2½ inches. It carried 1,650 gallons of gasoline and 150 gallons of oil, which will give it a range of about 4,700 miles.

Oxygen will permit flying at between 10,000 and 15,000 feet, Hughes said.

GOOD WEATHER IN PROSPECT FOR ATLANTIC FLIGHT

New York, July 10.—[Special.]—Surrounded by weather instruments and radio senders and receivers, nine men remained in a room of the Business Systems building on the grounds of the New York world's fair tonight as the plane carrying Howard Hughes and his four associates flew over the Atlantic ocean.

Five of the men analyzed incoming weather reports and the others sat with radio headsets over their ears, sending and receiving reports to and from the plane.

William Curtis Rockefeller, 28 years old, meteorologist of the California Institute of Technology, who prepared the weather chart for the flight, said the plane faced favorable weather, with no storms in mid-Atlantic.

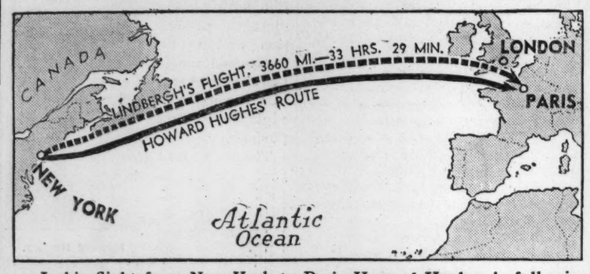
From Paris Hughes may fly on around the world, attempting to break speed record of Wiley Post's flight around the globe. The map shows Post's route, which he covered in seven days 18 hours 49 minutes.



In his flight from New York to Paris Howard Hughes is following the great circle route across the Atlantic. Col. Charles A. Lindbergh flew this route to Paris—and to fame—a little more than eleven years ago.

Policeman Hides in Auto as Guard; Wheel Stolen

Cambridge, Mass., July 10.—(AP)—To catch pilferers who have been stealing equipment from the police garage a policeman was detailed to hide in a patrol car all night. When he awoke from a nap he found his car had been jacked up and a wheel and tire had been removed.

3,472 RELIEFERS CERTIFIED FOR JOBS WITH WPA

As a result of a recent survey, 3,472 persons now on relief in Chicago will be removed to the Works Progress administration rolls as soon as new projects in the federal works program are approved and jobs become available, Leo M. Lyons, Chicago relief administrator, said yesterday. They have been certified for work relief.

The survey was made by the Illinois Emergency Relief commission after a study indicated that many persons are accepting relief when they should be working. The Chicago Relief administration had listed 21,166 cases as employable or able to work but whose eligibility the WPA had declined to accept. All these cases were reviewed.

"The Survey," Lyons said, "was part of an intensive effort to separate from the relief rolls either through private employment or WPA employment all able bodied persons."

3,000 SEE PLANE HIT ELECTRIC WIRES AND BURN; 1 DEAD, 2 MAY DIE

Dubuque, Ia., July 10.—[Special.]—Three thousand persons assembled at the Municipal airport to watch an air circus this afternoon saw a private plane crash into a power wire carrying 165,000 volts of electricity and burn. One man was injured fatally and the two others in the plane were injured and burned so severely that physicians said neither could live.

Pilots' licenses identified the owners of the plane as Dr. A. J. Ploog, 40 years old, a dentist, and Woodrow Lorenz, 20 years old, both of Lincoln, Ia. Skulls of both were fractured and Lorenz' back and one leg were broken.

Their guest was Arthur Vollmert, 20 years old, of neighboring Gladbrook. Vollmert died in a Dubuque hospital three hours after the crash.

OUTSIDERS URGE STRIKERS TO KEEP ON DEFYING LAW

CIO Aids Exhort Foundry Workers at Rally.

Orators from other cities gathered at a massmeeting in North Chicago last night and urged striking members of a C. I. O. union to remain firm in their defiance of the law.

Circuit Judge Ralph J. Dady of Lake county has enjoined the strikers, who have been directed by outside organizers since a strike began on June 6 at the plant of the Chicago Hardware Foundry company, against intimidating workers who wish to return to work. Pickets declined to listen to the reading of the injunction and stomped on copies of it. Later they issued handbills, some of which were passed about in Judge Dady's courtroom, attacking him as "reactionary."

Ex-Student Exhorts Workers.

One of the speakers last night was Robert Woertz, who is now the strikers' leader. He is not a factory worker. He is a former school teacher who was a graduate student at Northwestern university last year. He appeared at North Chicago only after the strike was called.

Another was John Rice, first assistant to Van A. Bittner, head of the steel workers' organizing committee in the middle west and a right hand man of John L. Lewis. The strikers belong to a unit of the Amalgamated Association of Steel, Iron, and Tin Workers, affiliated with the Lewis C. I. O.

Rice declared that the "tin horn politicians" of Lake county would have to let the strike alone. "If the police and the sherif let us fight our own battle," he said, "we'll win. Judge Dady is one of the most reactionary judges in the country. He's wrong and we'll prove he is."

Asks 4,000 to Repel "Thugs."

Both he and Woertz called on all those present, including union men and citizens generally, to join the picket lines today and have a huge turnout ready to prevent any workmen reaching the plant. Woertz declared that 4,000 were needed, as he expected "an early attack by hired thugs and gunmen."

Others who exhorted the strikers were Henry Archer of the Fur Workers' union, John Erickson of the American Federation of Labor union at the Johns Manville company's Waukegan plant; Miss Marian Woertz, Glencoe school teacher and a sister of Robert Woertz, and John Cerk, Socialist candidate for mayor of North Chicago. It was estimated that about 1,000 gathered near the hardware factory, heard the speeches.

10 Face Contempt Citations.

Ten of the strikers have been cited to appear before Judge Dady this morning to show cause why they should not be held in contempt for disobeying his injunction. The strike leaders have demanded that their union members appear in force in the courtroom.

State's Attorney Charles E. Mason expects to start presenting evidence of illegal activities to the Lake county grand jury today. He said he would request indictments against a number of the strikers charging conspiracy and intimidation.

Lake county sherif, Lawrence A. Doolittle, reported that a number of persons representing themselves as strike supporters had called his office and informed him that they would not tolerate any interference from him or his deputies.

Hurl Acid Upon Awning of Picketed Milk Shop

The Chicago avenue police were notified yesterday that acid was thrown on the awning of a grocery store at 1120 North Clark street early in the day. Miss Rose Miller, owner of the store, told the police that the place has been picketed by the Milk Wagon Drivers' union because milk purchased from a nonunion dairy is sold there. She blamed labor trouble for the attack.

2 FILM WORKERS HELD IN $50,000 FORGERY EXPOSE

Louis Mayer's Name Used in Fantastic Note Plot.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 10.—(AP)—A motion picture sound recorder and a makeup artist were jailed tonight on charges of forging the name of Louis B. Mayer, head of M-G-M studio, to a series of promissory notes for $50,000.

Arrested were Donald Smart, 35 years old, the sound recorder who John Klein, chief investigator for the district attorney, said was the brains of a fantastic forgery scheme, and Layne Britton, 30, the makeup artist, who was exonerated by Smart of any wrong-doing.

Klein said Smart confessed the forgeries, detailing that he represented himself as a confidential agent of Mayer, using the notes purportedly to negotiate secret contracts with such film stars as Nelson Eddy, Jeanette MacDonald, and Charles Laughton.

Loans Advanced on Notes.

Klein said Smart was able to obtain loans on the bogus notes through an elaborate scheme. He charged Smart had a forged letter purportedly signed by Mayer stating that he was Mayer's agent in obtaining contracts with Eddy, Miss MacDonald, and Laughton that would terminate their services with M.-G.-M. if Mayer quit that studio.

For this service, the letter set forth, Smart was to get 10 per cent of each of the stars' earnings for one year as a commission. In the case of Laughton, this would have amounted to $20,000.

Last week Mayer heard that Gail Burck, a Los Angeles attorney, claimed to hold his note for $25,000. The movie executive turned the matter over to his lawyer, and the district attorney was given the case.

Uses Chauffeur to Get Letter.

Klein said Burck wrote Mayer asking him to sign a new note to establish validity of the deal. The officer said Smart confessed he obtained the letter by persuading a chauffeur at the Mayer residence that it had been misdirected, and sent back a new note ostensibly in the movie magnate's writing.

Klein said Britton entered the case when Burck wanted to talk personally to Mayer. Through his connection with picture casting, the makeup artist had become friendly with telephone operators, he said, and arranged to have the lawyer's call for Mayer transferred to him.

Identifying himself as Mayer, Klein said, Britton acknowledged the note and said it would be paid on the due date. The officers said Smart convinced Britton he was doing Mayer a favor by answering the call.

Sumter, S. C., July 10.—[Special.]—Redin G. Pittman and his wife, Travis Goodman Pittman, will be taken to prison this week to begin life sentences for the slaying of Dr. E. M. Davis. The jury that convicted them recommended mercy to Judge Phillip H. Stoll. Their defense was based on the testimony of Mrs. Pittman, 22 years old, who said Davis sought to renew intimacy with her that had been started on her mother's insistence when she was 14 years old.

Trusty at the Bridewell Strolls Off to Freedom

Joseph Miller, 24 years old, a trusty at the Bridewell, walked away from the grounds late yesterday. Police were looking for him last night. Miller was sentenced on Aug. 5, 1937, for tampering with an automobile. He was not due for release until October. He had served two sentences previously for minor crimes.

TIE WATCHMAN AND BLOW SAFE FEW FEET AWAY

Ionia, Mich., July 10.—[Special.]—Herman Han, 50 years old, a night watchman, knows how it feels to be trussed to a chair by burglars and then have them blow a safe with nitroglycerin within a few feet of him and have pieces of flying steel narrowly miss him. The cracksmen obtained $100 in loot, but they might have had $1,800 if they had been a little more thorough in their work.

Han was making his rounds in the darkened plant of the Grand Valley Packing company here early this morning when he was seized by three armed men.

Disappointed, the burglars turned to a smaller safe near Han and set off a charge of nitroglycerin. Pieces of steel went flying by Han, several of them piercing the body of a nearby truck. There was no money in the safe.

$15,000 IN GEMS STOLEN FROM N. Y. BEACH CLUB

New York, July 10.—[Special.]—A nimble-fingered thief, working in view of two society girls, stole jewelry valued at $15,000 today from the private locker room of Maj. John A. Warner, head of the New York state police, at the fashionable Southampton Beach club.

Most of the jewelry was the property of Mrs. Foye Staniford, who, with her husband, a resident of Hewlett, N. Y., were guests of Warner and his wife, who is the daughter of Al Smith.

Warner discovered that in addition to the jewelry, his wallet, containing $110 and his police badge, was missing.

PRESIDENT'S ALL AT STAKE IN HIS DRIVE FOR 1940

Waging Warfare on Wide Front for Control.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 10.—[Special.]—What with his attempt to purge the Democratic party of legislators who have flouted his will, his warfare on conservative Democrats in general, and his move for economic reconstruction of the south, President Roosevelt is fighting on a wide front for control of his party in the 1940 presidential election.

It already is apparent that every ounce of his enormous power and every device known to the practical politician is being invoked to gain his end. Injecting himself into Democratic primaries and thereby stirring factional animosities that can only widen the existing Democratic party split, the President has burned his bridges behind him and is risking his political fortunes on the campaign in which he is now engaged.

Believe He's Receptive.

It is a huge stake that he is going to win or lose. For some time the politicians have been convinced that Mr. Roosevelt is a receptive candidate for a third term. In such comment as he has made on the subject it is noticeable that he has carefully refrained from closing the door to a third nomination.

Highly significant also is the attitude of Mrs. Roosevelt and other members of the President's family and of members of the cabinet which is, not that a third term is barred by the unwritten law, but that it is hoped the President will not run, or that he should not be asked to jeopardize his health by another four years of such arduous duties or that only the President can say whether he will or will not stand again for the office.

Unless the President should withdraw his name definitly from consideration the active promotion of his candidacy for a third term may be expected to materialize in 1939 with the organization of Roosevelt third term clubs, adoption of third term memorials and other manifestations of the movement.

1938 May Decide Fate.

If he should succeed in "liquidating" proscribed Democrats in the current primaries and win the congressional elections next November the third term movement might be expected to appear at once. On the other hand a conspicuous defeat of the President in these primaries and elections would be a wet blanket for the third term.

Orthodox administration men, noting the enthusiastic reception of the President at every stop of his present journey, except Marietta, O., are elated and confident that he will sweep the country. Conservative Democratic leaders, on the other hand, are predicting that the President's attempt to purge his party of those who have demonstrated independence of his dictation will be repudiated in the majority of constituencies no less emphatically than in Iowa, where Senator Guy M. Gillette was renominated, and in Indiana where the Democratic organization capitulated to Senator Frederick Van Nuys in an effort to avert certain defeat at the polls.

Takes Hand in Primaries.

Significant of the desperation of the President's cause was the frank abandonment by Mr. Roosevelt of the neutrality in Democratic primaries on which he had prided himself and departure from which he had previously so indignantly denied. The immediate cause of this abandonment of even the semblance of neutrality was the Iowa primary in which the President, professing to be impartial but secretly fighting Senator Gillette for renomination, was disastrously defeated.

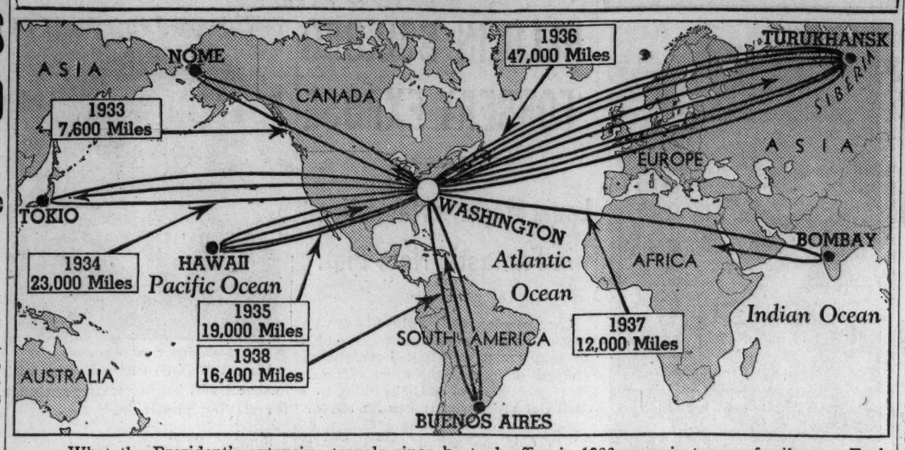
Because he had not openly proscribed Gillette the Iowa senator was able to maintain throughout his campaign that he was an administration backer in unrepudiated first class standing with the President. To make the purge effective, the elimination committee contended, it would be necessary for the President to go into the open against his Democratic opponents.

The President accepted the advice and dropped the mask of neutrality when he went on the air in his latest fireside chat. Interpreted as a reference to Senator Gillette's ride to victory under the officially unrepudiated Roosevelt imprimatur was the President's assertion that "I feel that I have every right to speak in those few instances where there may be a clear issue between candidates for a Democratic nomination involving these principles or involving a clear misuse of my own name."

The sudden interest manifested by the President in the economic condition of the south which he pronounced the country's No. 1 problem, is regarded by the conservative Democrats as purely political.

Seen through the eyes of the southern Democrats in congress who oppose or dislike most of the administration's economic program, the current interest n their section is linked to the drive to head off the conservative coalition behind Vice President John N. Garner. The aim, as these conservatives see it, is to make things difficult for such southern administration critics as Senator Walter F. George of Georgia and Ellison D. Smith of South Carolina, who are engaged in primary contests, and Senators Josiah W. Bailey of North Carolina, Carter Glass and Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, who, while not up for reelection this year, must face the voters in future elections.

Roosevelt Is Most Traveled President



What the President's extensive travels since he took office in 1933 mean in terms of mileage. Each year's total is expressed in terms of trips to some point on the world's map. The total will be about 125,000 miles when he returns from his present expedition.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 10.—[Special.]—As a traveler Mr. Roosevelt has broken all records of American presidents. President Taft had held the record with a total of 115,000 miles until a few weeks ago, when Mr. Roosevelt passed it. By the time he returns from his present expedition across the country and to the Galapagos islands his mileage since March 4, 1933, will be not far from 125,000.

Every state in the Union except Arizona and New Mexico has seen the figure of the President. He has visited all American island possessions except the Philippines and he has been received in five foreign countries and at many British colonial ports.

Since taking office Mr. Roosevelt has been away from Washington more than 40 per cent of the time. In 1933, his first year, he traveled only 7,600 miles. The next year, however, when he went to Hawaii, he topped 23,000 miles. In 1935, when he visited the Panama Canal, his mileage dropped to 19,000, but in 1936, with its presidential election, he covered 47,000 miles, 18,000 of which were ticked off in his campaign stumping of 25 states.

After the election he added 14,000 miles with his voyage to Argentina and back in 28 days. In 1937 the President covered more than 12,000 miles on fishing and other holiday excursions and his cross-country trip in the fall ostensibly to visit his daughter in Seattle, Wash.,

Mr. Roosevelt travels by every sort of conveyance except the airplane. He flew to the Chicago convention to accept his first nomination but after he became President the guardians of his safety forbade traveling by air. He journeys by automobile, train, yacht, battleship, and cruiser.

Mr. Roosevelt also is the most expensive traveler the taxpayers ever have had in the White House. He is provided with an expense fund of $25,000 a year to pay for travel and official entertainment, and he spends it all. But this is only a drop in the bucket of the cost of his traveling. Out of the $25,000 comes only the cost of railway fares and accommodations for himself and his family.

What with the cost of maintaining a peripatetic White House and of operating battleships, cruisers, destroyers, and other naval equipment for the convenience and pleasure of the President, Mr. Roosevelt's total travel expense account for the last five years is estimated to exceed 25 million dollars.

ROOSEVELT SPENDS SUNDAY AT RANCH OF HIS SON ELLIOTT

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Fort Worth, Tex., July 10.—[Special.]—As an interlude on his cross-country political tour President Roosevelt today rested at Dutch Branch ranch, the home of his second son, Elliott Roosevelt.

He came to the ranch at midnight from Oklahoma City, Okla., where he called for the renomination of Senator Elmer Thomas.

The President spent a hot Sunday visiting with his son and the latter's wife, the former Ruth Googins, on their 700 acre ranch about twenty miles out of this city.

The only intrusion on the President's rest came in the early evening, when he made a brief radio address to Texas, expressing his pleasure at being in the state for the third time in three years. He spoke over station KFJZ, which is owned by Elliott's wife and of which Elliott is vice president.

Mr. Roosevelt will leave here tomorrow morning to continue the journey to the west coast, which is to end next Saturday when he will board the U. S. S. Houston for a fishing cruise off Galapagos and Cocos Islands.

U. S. COMMITTEE WILL OPEN TVA INQUIRY TODAY

Quiz Group Plans Tour of Projects.

Dr. Morgan had acted in a manner prejudicial to the interests of the TVA and accused him of sabotage.

Dr. Morgan was the dam builder and engineer of the TVA. Harcourt Morgan was the fertilizer expert. Lilienthal was the hydro power man.

By voting together, Harcourt Morgan and Lilienthal, it was charged, were able to leave Chairman Morgan, one of the original godfathers of TVA, high and dry, as a minority of one of three.

Major Matters in Quiz.

Among major matters to be investigated in the Morgan charges are:

The 5 million dollar marble claims of Senator George L. Berry of Tennessee.

The phosphate lands, operation of the phosphate plant, and the build-up of a so-called subsidized political machine by Harcourt Morgan among county agents and land grants colleges.

The yardstick set up as a standard to measure fair rates for electricity by private industry. This, the most complicated of the problems, requires engineering research. Dr. Morgan maintains that the TVA has put out a false and deceptive yardstick.

DISCUSS WAGNER FOR CARDOZO'S SEAT ON BENCH

Parsons Urges Roosevelt to Name Horner.

Washington, D. C., July 10.—(AP)—Senator Robert Wagner [D., N. Y.] was mentioned increasingly tonight in capital speculation about a successor to Supreme Court Justice Benjamin N. Cardozo, who died last night after an illness of seven months.

Senator Wagner.

Other names also were discussed for the appointment, among them Gov. Henry Horner of Illinois. Representative Claude Parsons [D., Ill.] disclosed he had telegraphed President Roosevelt urging that Horner be chosen.

Some speculated that the President might be urged—and be inclined—to name a far westerner. At present there is no representation on the court from the states west of Minnesota.

Wagner Roosevelt Supporter.

Speculation among congressmen and observers, however, centered largely on Wagner. The New Yorker has been a close friend of the President for many years and an active supporter of his policies in the senate.

Intimates of Wagner expressed the opinion that he would accept the appointment. His friends have represented him as cherishing an ambition to top off his long career of public life by serving on the Supreme court.

Wagner is understood to have been considered when President Roosevelt made his two previous appointments to the court—those of Justices Hugo L. Black of Alabama and Stanley F. Reed of Kentucky.

Two New Yorkers Now on Bench.

On those occasions, however, there was the factor that his appointment would bring to four the number of New Yorkers on the court. Chief Justice Charles E. Hughes, Justices Harlan F. Stone and Cardozo all were appointed from New York.

Friends of Circuit Judge Sam G. Bratton of Albuquerque, N. M., advanced his name when the earlier vacancies occurred during this administration.

Other westerners discussed as possible appointees include Circuit Judge William Denman of San Francisco, Justices Harold M. Stephens of Utah, and Justin Miller of California, members of the District of Columbia Court of Appeals.

Others Mentioned for Post.

Among other names receiving mention are those of Ferdinand Pecora and Samuel Rosenman, New York Supreme court judges; Solicitor General Robert H. Jackson; Senator Sherman Minton [D., Ind.]; Dean James M. Landis of Harvard law school, and Robert M. Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago.

Justice Cardozo succumbed to heart disease at the home of Justice Irving Lehman of the New York State Court of Appeals at Port Chester, N. Y. He had been ill since December. Private funeral services will be conducted at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the Lehman residence.

GOV. LA FOLLETTE PRAISES SWEDES' INDUSTRY, IDEALS

Gov. Philip La Follette of Wisconsin praised the industry and liberalism of the Swedish people yesterday. He addressed 20,000 Swedes gathered in Good Templar park at Geneva to celebrate the tercentenary of Swedish settlement in this country.

"The Swedes have a right to be proud of their accomplishments in America," Gov. La Follette said. "This country and Sweden are proud of those who came here and made excellent citizens. They have reflected the liberalism upon which this country is based."

M'KAY TO SEEK ELECTION LAW OF TWO PARAGRAPHS

Illinois election laws should be so simple that every one can understand them. They should consist of only two paragraphs, instead of the twenty-eight paragraphs now scattered through the statute book. Alexander J. McKay, chairman of the state commission to revise the laws, said yesterday that the next legislature will be asked to make the changes.

"Present election laws are a crazy quilt," McKay said. "We want laws that all the voters, and not only lawyers, can understand. We are working steadily to complete our report to change the laws. They will be boiled down to two paragraphs."

McKay will meet today in the county building with Prof. Walter F. Dodd, constitutional lawyer, and seven other lawyers who are helping the commission. McKay is also chairman of the Chicago board of election commissioners.

400 OF COUNTY'S JUNIOR G. O. P. TO ATTEND PARLEY

Downstate to Send as Many to Convention.

BY PERCY WOOD.

Young Republicans of Cook county, after a year's hard work unifying junior party members in Chicago wards and country townships, declare they will take a strong delegation to the state convention at Bloomington, July 23 and 24.

Richard Nowinson, chairman, said yesterday that he expected at least 400 young men and women from Cook county to attend the state meeting. This group probably will be matched in size, if not exceeded, by the downstate contingent, Nowinson added. Delegates are chosen on the basis of the Republican votes cast for governor in 1936 and by that yardstick downstate is entitled to a few more than Cook county.

State Representative Richard J. Lyons, Republican nominee for United States senator, will be the keynoter at the convention. He will divide speaking honors with the retiring state president, Harold E. Walsh of Bloomington.

Pick Major Committees.

As part of the preconvention organization work, Walsh has named the resolutions and nominating committees. Their reports are expected to be available before the meeting. Kimball Hill, Evanston, and William Eovaldi, Benton, are co-chairmen of the platform drafting committee. Wayne Denker, Forrest, and Hayes McLaughlin, Chicago, head the nominating committee.

Under an unwritten agreement, the presidency is slated to go to Cook county this year. Nowinson is reported to have widespread support for the post. No other name has been heard thus far.

During the five years the statewide organization has functioned only one Chicagoan, Thomas J. Downs, has headed it.

Nowinson said that in the last year efficient groups have been unified in twenty-seven of the fifty wards in Chicago and in nine of the thirty country townships in the county.

Want Two in Each Precinct.

"Our goal," the county chairman said, "is to have a young man and a young woman in each precinct, working with the regular precinct captain in placing the issues of the fall campaign before the voters. We aid the ward committeemen wherever possible.

"We feel that the future of youth will be determined by the future of our government and we know that youth can see the futility and utter hopelessness of a great many of the Roosevelt proposals. The CCC and WPA jobs offer nothing permanent for youth. They want jobs in private industry."

Inhalator Squad Revives Chinese Taken from Lake

Tony Gay, 46 years old, a Chinese, 535 South State street, was rescued last night after he had fallen into the lake from the east end of Navy pier. Witnesses called to Harold Meanor, 25, of the Lake Shore Athletic club, a medical student, who was near by in his outboard motor boat. He pulled Gay out of the water. Inhalator Squad 5 revived him and police later removed him to the County hospital.

3 HOUR EFFORT FAILS TO REVIVE DROWNED YOUTH

A young man unable to swim drowned last evening in the lake off 56th street, but he was not given up for dead until after nearly three hours of dramatic rescue effort.

The victim, Michael Sutera, 19 years old, 5327 South Moody avenue, was one of a party of thirteen young people at the beach. The section there is not officially open to swimming and is not protected. Sutera, who was wading, walked into a water hole, and sank. Two friends, Anthony Donofrio, 5908 West 55th street ,and Walter Christy, 5448 Hunt avenue, tried unsuccessfully to bring him up. Others ran to the 58th street beach and called Life Guard Robert Weinberg.

Weinberg soon had Sutera ashore. He had been in the water seven minutes. An unidentified physician said Sutera was apparently dead, but thought adrenalin might revive him. Park Policemen William Sullivan and Daniel Fitzgerald used their two-way squad car radio to call for the heart stimulant. A supply of it was rushed from the Chicago Memorial hospital by Drs. Eugene A. Changnon and Harry Benaron. It was injected on the beach. Sutera was then taken to the Billings Memorial hospital where physicians and a fire department inhalator squad worked on him two hours.

REVEAL CAREFUL PLANNING BEHIND GAMBLING RAIDS

Lake County W. C. T. U. Head Tells Inside Story.

Mrs. Amanda Herrick, president of the Waukegan unit of the Women's Christian Temperance union, yesterday told the inside history of a series of sensational raids, conducted Saturday and yesterday, on Lake county resorts operating slot machines. Ninety-four slot machines and twenty-five pin ball machines were seized and twenty-nine persons were arrested.

Charles E. Mason, Lake County State's Attorney.

"Plans for the raids have been made over a period of months," Mrs. Herrick said. The Waukegan Church federation, the Lake County Church federation, the W. C. T. U., and a number of individuals coöperated in financing the drive.

"Final arrangements were made Friday night, when the directors of the Waukegan W. C. T. U. met and pledged $500 needed to cover all expenses.

Proud of Results.

"We consider this drive one of the finest things we have ever done. Conditions around the taverns have been frightful. Slot machines constitute a million dollar racket in the county. We acted because it was intolerable. We are not a bunch of old fanatics, and we went about it in a legal and dignified way."

Mrs. Herrick said most of the investigating had been done by Claude H. Warner, 21 Edison street, Waukegan, who is manager of the physicians' service bureau and the professional adjustment bureau of Waukegan.

"Mr. Warner," she said, "is a public spirited man. Although he is not wealthy, he paid nearly $500 himself toward the cost of the raids."

Tells Reason for Secrecy.

When she was asked why she had not notified State's Attorney Charles E. Mason and Sherif Lawrence A. Doolittle of the contemplated seizures, she replied: "We were too smart for that."

"The sherif," she continued, "and Mr. Mason knew that the slot machines were operating. They didn't do their duty. We have gotten rid of a great many machines and please don't think they won't stay out. We are going to demand a special grand jury and a special prosecutor to consider the cases of the operators. It is time we quit letting Lake county be a refuge for Cook county hoodlums."

Political Motive, Says Mason.

The W. C. T. U. president declared there was nothing political in the raids. This was disputed by State's Attorney Mason.

"Certainly the motive was political," he declared. "There was no reason for conducting the raids that way. I would have been glad to act if complaints had been made to me; and I shall, of course, resist efforts to have a special prosecutor. The present grand jury can consider the evidence and I shall present it myself, if requested."

The raiding forces secretly obtained warants, sworn to by Warner's brother, Douglas, from Justice of the Peace Henry Hansen of Highland Park. Special constables were sworn in and visited the resorts.

Yesterday the two Warners led a party to the home of Earl W. Eddy on Prairie avenue, Mundelein, and took possession of twenty-five pinball machines. Eddy is the alleged distributor of such devices in the Lake county lake resort country. He was not at home, but his father, William, 60 years old, was taken into custody. The raiders also seized two slot machines in the tavern of Arthur Voss, south of Zion.

All the machines were stored in a warehouse in Highland Park. Those arrested made bonds and are to be arraigned before Magistrate Hansen in court sessions beginning tonight.

REBELS LAUNCH 4 NEW ATTACKS IN VALENCIA DRIVE

Spanish Seaport Fortifies to Withstand Siege.

HENDAYE, France [At the Spanish Frontier], July 10. — (AP) — Spanish rebels, gathering momentum from capture of bomb-blasted Nules, launched four distinct attacks today in their drive down the Mediterranean coast toward Valencia.

Government authorities, fearful of a rebel siege of the important seaport, drafted urgent plans to fortify approaches to Valencia from the north after the emergency visit yesterday of Gen. José Miaja, defense commander.

Gen. Miguel Aranda's Galician army and Gen. Garcia Valino's Navarrese both forked in two directions with offensives which a government communique acknowledged were "intense."

Aranda's main body drove down the coastal highway toward Chilches, last village but one before Almenara, historic "key to Valencia" which guards the pass through the Cid mountain range. Chilches, about 24 miles north of Valencia, is at the end of a road from Vall de Uxo, about four miles to the northwest.

Soldiers Climb Mountain Trails.

Another column, fresh from storming the heights crowned by the Villavieja fortress, drove on Vall de Uxo in an attempt to force passage of the Balcayde river at the same time as the main body. Government advices, however, reported Aranda's attack was cut short in that sector.

Valino's infantry, which won its first laurels in mountain fighting in the north, climbed goat trails through the Espadan range in the face of government machine gun nests and routed the defenders with hand grenades.

Valino reported capture of the villages of Ahin and Jinque, deep in the range. Rebel dispatches, reporting the Navarrese now look down into the valley leading to Sagunto, said they had divided into two columns in a drive to cross the mountains and descend on Segorbe.

Segorbe, straddling the highway from Teruel to the coast, is essential to the government's hopes of preventing a junction of rebel forces driving scuth and east toward Valencia.

Every Hillside a Fort.

Valencia's plans to resist siege were reported to include fortifications on every hillside north to Chilches. Laborers have been recruited to build twenty trench lines in this area, running irregularly east and west between the coast and hills among lush, green orange groves.

The rebels also launched a new drive in northern Catalonia. A government communique said the rebels struck at dawn from trenches on the long dormant northern front against government positions at Fuente de la Seo, in the Sort sector of the Pyrenees. Government forces forming strongly fortified posts around Piedras de Aolo peak were reported to have repulsed six rebel attacks.

Bombers Strike Near Tortosa.

MADRID, July 10. — (AP) — Rebel bombing planes were reported today to have virtually destroyed the town of Ampolla, just east of Trotosa, and inflicted heavy damage on the nearby villages of Altea and Lacava.

LITHUANIA SENTENCES 7 GERMANS AS RESULT OF RIOTING IN MEMEL

KAUNAS, Lithuania, July 10.—(AP)—The Lithuanian military commandant in Memel sentenced seven Germans today to periods of detention in a concentration camp as a result of rioting on June 22, when the German steamer Preussen arrived there. Three others were sentenced to three months' imprisonment.

Germans charged with rioting when the steamer Hansestadt Danzig arrived at Memel on June 28 will be tried by a military court.

Four policemen were injured in the first incident when crowds of Memel Germans clashed with the authorities as the latter tried to halt a demonstration on the arrival of the Preussen. In the next clash, two Lithuanians were wounded fatally and a number of persons injured in a conflict which broke out as thousands of Germans gathered to greet the Hansestadt Danzig.

CAPTOR OF ROSS KIDNAPER QUITS JOB AS G-MAN

Denver, Colo., July 10.—(AP)—Ralph D. Brown, who directed the hunt and capture of J. H. Seadlund, kidnaper of Charles S. Ross of Chicago, announced last night he had resigned.

Ralph D. Brown.

The chief of the F. B. I. office here said he "loved" the organization, but resigned because it was "so hamstrung by congress it offers no security to a man of family."

Brown, who aided in tracking down John Dillinger and was present when Dillinger was shot, said his resignation was submitted a month ago to J. Edgar Hoover, director of the F. B. I. It will become effective Oct. 15.

The agent declined to reveal his plans for the future. He had been with the F. B. I. nine years.

KIDNAP AND ROB DRUGGIST; SOON SEIZED BY POLICE

Harry Hunt, 19 years old, 4639 South Union avenue, and Alfonse Sadauski, 20, of 5035 Princeton avenue, were captured early today by Sergt. Michael Nolan and a Woodlawn station squad shortly after they had allegedly held up Julius Leftwich, 5957 Elizabeth street, a druggist, and taken $4 and his automobile. He was kidnaped in his car by two men at 67th and State streets, and put out at 50th street and Shields avenue.

Nolan and his men saw the car at 50th street and Normal avenue, and forced it to the curb at 55th and State streets. Hunt and Sadauski were in it. They were not armed. Leftwich identified them.

Police said that Sadauski killed a Negro a few months ago, but was freed. Hunt's brother, John Hunt Jr., 20 years old, was killed by Policeman John Fleming on Jan. 1, 1937, when he was trapped in a burglary at 8409 Stony Island avenue.

Boy, 3, Is Fatally Injured in Fall of Three Stories

A newspaper boy wakened Michael Putzboch and his wife at 3821 Lake Park avenue early yesterday morning. He shouted for them to hurry outside. They found their son, Kenneth, 3 years old, unconscious in an areaway. He had slept in their bed a few inches away from a third floor window and apparently had rolled out during the night. The child died later in Michael Reese hospital. Mrs. Putzboch said the screen had been secure in the window and that she could not explain how it came out.

2 DEPUTIES EVEN UP SCORE WITH OLD MAN RIVER

Deputy Sherifs William Miller and Harold Manning couldn't swim quite fast enough last Thursday night. As a result two thieves who wrecked a stolen car near Wheeling and plunged into the Des Plaines river got away. This only made the deputies more determined.

They were driving along the same road yesterday when at the same point two young men wrecked a car they didn't own. The young men jumped into the river. The deputies jumped in after them—and caught them. The prisoners are Jake Zitzer of 1701 North Park avenue and Edward Diener of Shebyogan, Wis. Both are 19 years old.

The deputies said the young men were driving a car belonging to Zitzer's employer, who didn't know they had it.

IRELAND HOISTS ITS FLAG OVER CORK FORT TODAY

Will Occupy British Sites Ceded by New Treaty.

CORK, Ireland, July 10.—(AP)—Irish troops will take over the Cork harbor forth and Spike Island tomorrow from British garrisons.

Spike Island, where Irish flag will be raised.

The action will complete an element of the Anglo-Irish finance, trade, and defense agreement of April 25, under which Great Britain undertook to transfer to Ireland admiralty property and rights at Spike Island, Bear Haven, and Lough Swilly.

Prime Minister Eamon de Valera, Defense Minister Frank Aiken, other cabinet ministers and members of parliament and other personages will witness the official ceremony.

An advance party of 50 Irish troops on duty on Spike Island, though the British garrison still is functioning, will be joined tomorrow by 600 soldiers.

Another Step Toward Freedom.

As the British flag is hauled down and the green, white, and gold banner of Ireland takes its place, the opening of a new era in Irish struggles for freedom will be marked. In addition to Spike Island, three other forts in the harbor — Camden, Templebrady, and Carlisle—will be taken over.

Bear Haven and Lough Swilly will be transferred to Irish defense units before the end of the year.

There will be rejoicing throughout Ireland tomorrow, a day in advance of the celebration in the six counties of northern Ireland of the 247th anniversary of the battle of the Boyne. The British won that battle and pressed their régime upon Ireland, a rule never accepted peacefully.

Island a Historic Spot.

Spike Island is a historic spot. Many fighters for Irish liberty were imprisoned there. From this point convict ships were loaded with Irishmen for exile in Australia. In the last century the area became headquarters for the British coast defense for the south of Ireland. During the world war men were trained there in the use of heavy guns.

In the accord by which the defenses are being transferred from the British, Ireland undertook the maintenance and development of these posts and pledged that no foreign nation ever would use Irish soil as a base of operations against Britain.

KILLED AT RAIL CROSSING.

Fulton, Ill., July 10.—[Special.]—Louis Housenga, 21 years old, of Thomson, was killed and two other persons were injured when their car crashed into the side of a Burlington railroad gas-electric train last night at a crossing south of here.

HITLER ASSAILS ART OF 1938 AS CULTURE OF NEANDERTHAL AGE

MUNICH, Germany, July 10.—(AP)—Adolf Hitler, who once forswore painting for politics, opened Germany's 1938 art exhibition today with a declaration that democracies were welcome to modern artists he classed as "cultural Neanderthalers" but that Nazi Germany wanted no part of them.

Neanderthal man as depicted by Sculptor Herman Priese of Stuttgart, Germany.

The Fuehrer attacked cubism, futurism, and Dadaism and lauded the Nazi cultural program. He said Nazi cultural propaganda doubtless would be recognized in the end as "on the right road," thereby assaulting anew "the front of international Jewish culture mongers."

WARSHIPS OF U.S., BRITAIN FLEE JAP SHELLING OF CITY

Yangtze Port Bombarded in Hankow Drive.

SHANGHAI, July 11.—[Monday.]—(AP)—The United States gunboat, Monocacy, and the British gunboat, Cockchafer, were reported today to have moved three miles up the Yangtze from their stations at Kiukiang as Japanese warships shelled Chinese defenses of the city in their drive toward Hankow.

Kiukiang is 135 miles down stream from Hankow and the gunboats were in the region, despite Japanese and Chinese warnings of danger, to protect their nationals.

Advices from Hankow said Chinese planes took the air, bombing the Japanese vessels and sinking two, believed to have been gunboats. The Chinese further reported one of their air squadrons had bombed a Japanese warship concentration off Anking, 80 miles down river from Kiukiang, sinking one and damaging one.

Strike from Two Directions.

The Kiukiang attack came as the Japanese struck toward Hankow, Chinese provisional capital, from two directions.

Their war planes rained bombs on a boom [barrier] across the Yangtze 30 miles upstream from Kiukiang while shock troops were reported attempting to cross Lake Poyang for a round-about, overland attack on Hankow by way of Nanchang.

At the same time other Japanese squadrons bombed the Nanchang and Hanyang airfields. A Japanese report said no airplanes were found at Nanchang but five buildings were set afire and at Hanyang four Chinese airplanes were destroyed and two damaged.

Down the river from Kiukiang, the Japanese admitted Chinese forces still were fighting around Hukow and Pengtseh.

Such tactics, if successful, would provide for control of the Yangtze within a short distance of Hankow and railroad bases for attacks against Hankow, Changsha, and Canton, South China port.

Battle Irregulars in North.

Far to the north, Japanese carried on in blistering heat on the Shansi province plains attempting a gigantic encircling movement designed to wipe out the most active Chinese guerrilla and irregular forces estimated to total 100,000 men. They reported they routed four Chinese divisions south of Kuwo, in southern Shansi province, forcing them to retreat to the mountains.

The Chinese, however, reported guerrilla attacks were proceeding successfully and asserted that in neighboring Honan province they had killed 200 Japaneso in an attack on Sinsiang, junction of the Peking-Hankow and Honan crossline railroads.

Japanese said guerrillas were active along the Honan, Shantung, and Kiangsu province borders about 375 miles northwest of Shanghai.

7 Killed, 1 Hurt in Battle Between Mexican Workers

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

MEXICO CITY, July 10.—In a battle between the inhabitants of two villages of the state of Oaxaca over possession of lands, seven persons were killed and one wounded, the newspaper La Prensa reported today. The fight, described as a "massacre," occurred when workers of the town of Rojas were attacked by workers from another village.

4 Battle Storms and Cold 24 Days to Conquer Peak

VALDEZ, Alaska, July 10.—(AP)—Brief notes jotted down during a twenty-four day battle against storms and frigid weather disclosed today that four young explorers had conquered 13,250 foot Mount St. Agnes, queen of the hitherto unclimbed peaks of the Chugach mountains. The notes were made by Bradford Washburn Jr., leader of the party, which reached the summit June 19. The expedition was sponsored by the Harvard Institute of Geographical Exploration.

Moving Forward

Marshall Field & Company presents here each day observations and opinions intended to be of interest and value to those it seeks to serve.

BETWEEN THE LINES

By CALEB

BY CUSTOM, years ago, merchants advertised their wares by hanging outside the shop doors a replica or symbol of the goods they offered. The bootmaker displayed a boot; the apothecary, a mortar and pestle; the jeweler, a watch.

That simple method of spreading news about merchandise did well enough for the merchant who followed his calling in a leisurely day, when wants were few, and time no object. Not so today, for advertising must pay its way by telling that which is timely, new and important.

In our own advertising (and the same is true in many other instances) the compelling force is news. There are many standards to be considered, but the final test is news value. Each advertisement must tell the reader about something that meets a very real need, must describe it fully and accurately, and in the matter of price, quality and utility convey a complete news summary.

That element in advertising copy imposes a widespread obligation. It means that we must have things in the store to tell about that are news. That in turn means alert and endless vigilance on the part of buyers because their purchases for the store must be news for our customers.

The task imposed by advertising reaches back into every phase of our business. Invariably it must carry a message to our customers—tell them something they didn't know before, or are waiting anxiously to hear about. If there is no news—then there is small point in advertising. Of course, many other elements enter into a decision about the amount, frequency and type of advertising. But large or small, each advertisement when it is run, is pretty certain to have in it some important news for a considerable number of customers.

Thus, quite plainly, advertising that is good, and is eagerly read and followed, bespeaks a business behind it that has important news to offer. Much modern advertising appears appropriately enough in daily newspapers. Its stories of new merchandise, fashion trends, of unusual values, when honestly and fully told, take their place in usefulness beside the printed news columns. Both play a vital part in American life.

FIRE FIGHTING MONSTERS GIVE CHICAGO SAFETY

See Them at Thrill Show Next Sunday.

if ever the opportunity comes to you—and you probably will get the thrill of your life. The spidery tower stretches down to the truck that looked so large when you were aboard it but is ridiculously small now.

Even the mighty sedan pumper that stands beside it looks like a toy. And the entire tower trembles with the energy that is throwing 1,800 gallons of water a minute through two nozzles. The one in front of your face is shooting a stream that falls 190 feet away.

Behind them will come the biggest piece of equipment any fire department uses: the hook and ladder truck. And it is one of the oldest types of rolling fire apparatus. There were hand drawn, then horse drawn and finally motor drawn hook and ladder wagons. Chicago has some of the largest ones in the world, costing $20,000 apiece.

The ones you will see in the parade will raise their ladders eighty-five feet into the air, enabling men to enter seventh story windows carrying hose lines or for rescue work.

Light Wagon Indispensable.

The next of the machines you will see was developed long after the day of the steam fire engines. It looks like a department store truck with six shining drums mounted on its top. This is the light wagon—it turns night into day for the fire fighters.

Those drums are 1,000 candle power lights. Five of them are floods and the sixth is a searchlight whose narrow, blinding beam will penetrate smoke, steam, or fog. This truck carries its own power generating system which supplies not only the big lights but fifteen handlamps. They are carried into burning buildings while 2,500 feet of extension cords unreel.

And the light wagon, which cost $10,000 to build, has another function. On its top, among the lights, is a black, square horn—the loudspeaker. This horn can be swiveled to any angle and when the battalion chief speaks into its microphone, carried in the driver's cab, every one within blocks knows what he has said.

Smoke Ejector New Unit.

Rolling along with the light wagon is something that at first glance appears to be a load of logs. Look closer and you will see that they are not logs. They are 10 foot web pipes, 14 inches across. This is $7,500 worth of smoke ejector.

When joined together these pipes are run into a smoke or gas filled building. A powerful suction fan draws out 18,000 cubic feet of air a minute. Not only does this 20th century device speed up the work of fire fighting but it has saved the lives of many people who had been overcome.

And with the firemen will be the foes of another ever present enemy—crime. One of the most thrilling exhibitions of the show will demonstrate the new two way radio squad cars of the Chicago park district.

A bandit chase and gun battle in which detective bureau squad cars will join will show the speed and east with which police can surround and capture fleeing outlaws.

Action in the thrill show will take place in all parts of Soldiers' field and each of the 70,000 available seats will be a good one. The prices—25 cents for adults and 10 cents for children—will be among the lowest ever charged in Chicago for an event of such magnitude.

The spectacle is sponsored by the fire and police departments, the Chicago park district, and THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. The proceeds will be used next year to provide a free show.

PARLEY CALLED TO ENFORCE LAW ON SEX MORONS

First Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert F. Crowley said yesterday that a conference of public officials will be held in the Criminal court building this week to discuss means of enforcing the new state law to control sex morons.

The law, signed a month ago by Gov. Horner, provides for the holding of jury trials to determine the sanity of persons who commit sex crimes and are apparently not of normal mentality. Such persons can first be sent to an institution for psychopathic treatment, and then be tried for their crimes when they have recovered.

WHITE-CLAD ROBBERS HUNTED.

Police searched yesterday for three men in spotless white clothes. They overpowered Thomas Mason near his home at 4855 North Tripp avenue and robbed him of $3.

30 ARE DROWNED AS FLOODS SWEEP 2 TURKISH TOWNS

ISTANBUL, July 10.—(AP)—More than 30 persons were drowned and a number injured when flood waters swept down on two villages in eastern Turkey after torrential rains. The entire villages of Kelerich and Daghkolalar, near Erzindjan, were inundated. Many farm houses were swept away and it was feared the final death toll might be much greater. The government hurriedly organized relief squads.

N. Y. Excursion Boat with 850 Disabled in Harbor

New York, July 10.—[Special.]—The excursion boat, Yankee, successor to the ill-fated Mandalay, returning from Atlantic Highlands, N. J., with more than 850 passengers aboard, was disabled in Upper New York bay, off Brooklyn, tonight when one of her paddle wheels was damaged. Then it drifted in the tide onto a mud flat. A police launch, a coast guard cutter, and a fireboat took the excursion boat in tow, however, and dragged the 780 ton vessel slowly to a nearby dock.

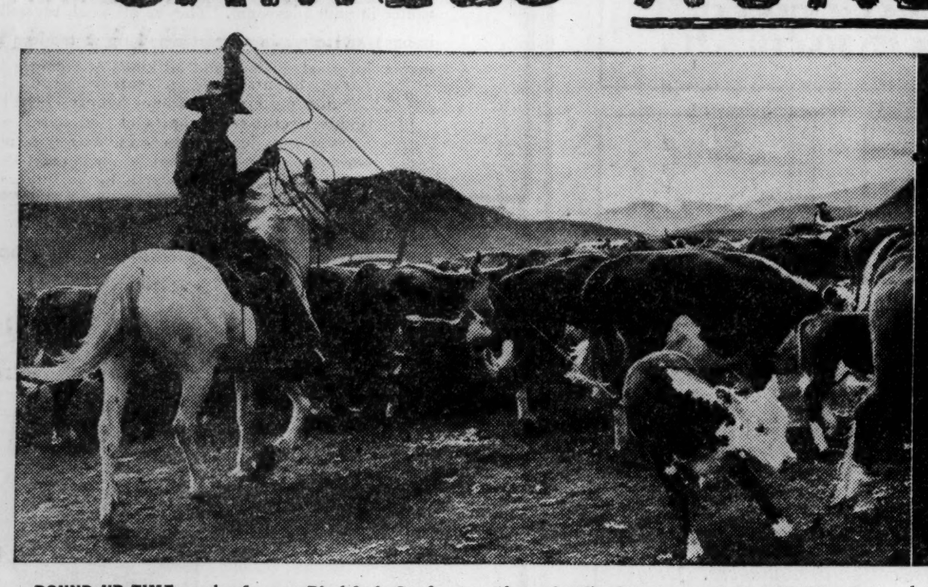
OUT WEST, TOO, ONE SMOKER TELLS ANOTHER
"CAMELS AGREE WITH ME"



ROUND-UP TIME at the famous Pitchfork Outfit, 200,000-acre Wyoming ranch of Charles J. Belden. The picture above shows "Chuck" Curtis, one of Pitchfork's best at "heeling" calves. Exciting work, but it's plenty tough too. So "Chuck's" cigarette is Camel! "When I get dog-tired," he says, "a Camel gives a quick 'lift' to my energy!" And that goes for many another cow-puncher. For out west, too, Camel is the favorite cigarette.

COME NIGHTFALL, the bunch sets out at Cook George Weller's chuck-wagon. Ken Stingel wrangles his guitar, while the boys vocalize, "Home on the Range." Camels aplenty here, for, as Ted Riegel (right of coffee pot) puts it, "After you've tucked away a hearty meal, there's nothing like a Camel 'for digestion's sake'—and for extra-mild, tasty smokin' too. And most top-hands'll go along with that sentiment, all right. We say Camel's the cigarette that agrees with us—all 'round!"

Are Camels really different from other cigarettes? "Yes," say smokers in the west—and in the east—the north—the south! All over America, millions know the big difference Camels make in smoking pleasure. Camels set you right!

CHUCK, HOW COULD ANYBODY SAY THAT ALL CIGARETTES ARE ALIKE? CAMELS ARE SURE 'WAY AHEAD IN MY ESTIMATION!
NO SIR—I DON'T GO FOR THE IDEA OF ALL CIGARETTES BEIN' ALIKE. CAMELS ARE A SIGHT DIFFERENT FROM OTHER CIGARETTES. I'VE BEEN OPEN-MINDED AND TRIED 'EM ALL, BUT I ALWAYS COME BACK TO CAMELS. I FIND CAMELS AGREE WITH ME!

COW-PUNCHERS Curtis and Riegel certainly feel that there is a big difference between Camels and other cigarettes. Read what they say—at right!

"NO JUMPY NERVES FOR ME!" says "Chuck" Curtis, who needs every ounce of nerve-power for the exhausting work of riding herd—wrangling horses—roping more than a hundred calves a day. "Chuck" says: "It's a big point with me, havin' my nerves healthy. Camels don't get on my nerves. And Camels never get my throat to feelin' all roughed up and ticklish. Cow-punchers have a mighty friendly feelin' for Camels. They set us right!"

PEOPLE DO APPRECIATE THE COSTLIER TOBACCOS IN CAMELS

THEY ARE THE LARGEST-SELLING CIGARETTE IN AMERICA

"Finer, more expensive tobaccos—that's why we smoke Camels," say the men who grow and grade tobacco

Planter Jesse T. Hardy brings out the fact that Camel buyers take the better grades on the market. He says: "For years Camel has bought my best tobacco—paid more to get it. We planters around here smoke Camels because we know Camel buys the finer tobaccos."

"Raising tobacco is my business," says John Thomas Caraway, veteran grower. "Camel bought the best of my last season's crop, as they have for many a year. So I know Camel gets finer, COSTLIER tobaccos. Naturally, Camel is the big favorite with us growers."

TALL TALES TOLD ABOUT WILD LIFE IN THE BIG CITY

This Drinking and Running Around—Tsch! Tsch!

Three animals and one bird scampered, strolled, strayed, and talked their way into the news yesterday.

First there was the monkey who trod the primrose path for a few hours. He paid for his indiscretions.

He first appeared on the ninth green of the Kildeer Country club, near Long Grove, just as H. E. McDonald, 826 Forest avenue, Wilmette, was trying a 30 foot putt.

Gets His Just Deserts.

The monkey darted from behind a tree, grabbed the ball, and scampered off. A few minutes later he sprang into the midst of 100 diners on the clubhouse veranda, snatched a Tom Collins from a table, and drank it. Then a girl fed him four sweet rolls, and away he went.

Meantime, Deputy Sherifs Stanley Christian and Frank Kazlausky began a search for him. They learned from the owner, a jocky at Lake Zurich, that the monkey had run away Saturday, and got his permission to kill the fugitive if necessary. That's what they did.

A Strolling Porcupine.

Then there was the porcupine, owner unknown, seen strolling in the 1700 block in 84th street. Policemen Joseph Corrigan and Herbert Mathews pushed her into a bushel basket with a broom and took her to the South Chicago station.

And then there was the horse who left the stall and manger furnished by his owner, Charles McCarthy, 82d street and Hoyne avenue, without even a parting neigh as notice. Police are still seeking the runaway.

Finally there was the parrot who may be found or heard in the neighborhood of Balmoral avenue and Paulina street. Neighbors complained the parrot talks too loud and too much. Police asked the bird's owner to muzzle her or something.

Total attendance by half years since Brookfield zoo opened in 1934.

More than seven million visitors have seen the animals at the Chicago Zoölogical park in Brookfield in the four years since the park was opened, officials announced yesterday.

There are now 2,104 specimens on display. Their value is estimated at $177,022.51. When the zoo was opened there were 1,356 specimens, valued at $88,000.

Officials said that the taxpayers' money is not used to buy animals and birds, since the zoo depends upon gifts and its own revenue for new specimens.

EXPERTS OF AIR TRANSPORT FIELD TO MEET IN CITY

The latest developments in aviation engineering will be discussed here by experts at a three day conference beginning Thursday. It will be the first Chicago meeting of the Air Transport Association of America. Attending will be 150 representatives of the air lines, aircraft and engine manufacturers, the army and navy air corps, and the federal bureau of air commerce. On Thursday the experts will leave the meeting, in the Blackstone hotel, to tour the maintenance base of American Airlines at Chicago airport, where more aircraft equipment is overhauled than in any other commercial air base in the world.

HIGH VOLTAGE KILLS 3 AS THEY ATTEMPT TO INSTALL RADIO AERIAL

West Saugerties, N. Y., July 10.—(AP)—John Schafft today decided his radio needed a new aerial. Mrs. Ella Simon said she'd help. Jacqueline Krable, 11 years old, looked on.

Schafft coiled the wire and tossed it over the roof of a summer cottage. Mrs. Simon caught it—and fell dead.

Schafft rushed to her side, stooped to lift her—and died.

Jacqueline's hands tore at the two bodies—and death took her.

The uncoiling wire had looped over a high tension line, carrying 4,440 volts.

NAVIGATION DAY HONORS PAID TO CITY LAKE FRONT

Chicago celebrated Navigation day yesterday and last night in an official glorification of its famous 28 mile lake front, one of the finest in the world.

A colorful event of the day was the appearance of some 700 boats of all classes in the lake in the vicinity of Navy pier. Scores participated in regattas. Thousands of persons watched.

The climax came at night. It was an hour's broadcast, pointing out the points of interest along the lake front from the United States Coast Guard cutter Rush. Aboard were city, county, and federal officials. The aviation beacon atop the Palmolive building was focused on points of interest as they were described.

ON THE ILLINOIS DOORSTEP.

The days of 1936 and '37 are coming back again, with C. I. O. flying squads creating lawlessness, with defiance of courts and authorities in New Orleans, Newton, Ia., and North Chicago. In the Iowa and Illinois towns the picket lines, manned by strong armed men from other parts of the country, have refused to obey court orders and they prevent workers from entering the Maytag plant at Newton and the Chicago Foundry factory in North Chicago.

In New Orleans the C. I. O. agents, maritime union organizers, have been attacking the trucking and taxicab services of the city, the drivers of which are associated with the A. F. of L. Seventy-one of the disturbers were thrown into jail and among them F. N. Myers, chief C. I. O. maritime organizer, who said that if he wasn't let out at once shipping on the Pacific coast, controled by Bridges, the communist, would be tied up.

What is happening in North Chicago is a repetition of the lawlessness and defiance of courts which stopped operations at the Fansteel plant in the same region, months ago. The leaders of that interference with court orders were arrested and indicted. In Newton there has been the same disregard of the courts.

The C. I. O. has control of the National Labor board, is favored in all its decisions, takes the Wagner labor act as its charter of privileges, dominates the Democratic Front party, and uses the department of labor as a branch of its organization. Nevertheless it is not satisfied with the control of administrative machinery and of the enforcement of labor laws. Its tactics require defiance of the courts and of law enforcement officers, and the seizure of property. It is so entrenched that it can operate on the assumption that no local authorities can deal with it. These are the significant tendencies of the present day and no citizen can afford to ignore their meaning.

In Illinois we have been accustomed to expect tolerance of such lawless, revolutionary acts in Michigan and Minnesota, where state government surrendered or aided. So also in Pennsylvania, in Rhode Island, and in New York City. But here's the thing again on our own doorstep.

John Lewis has paid his money and he collects. In his bond the blood goes along with the pound of flesh.

NO LONGER DARK AND BLOODY GROUND.

The battle of roses and kisses, charity and song is under way in a strange fashion in Kentucky, which has been more accustomed to taking its politics along the Hatfield-McCoy line than getting its inspiration from Father Divine. It would be a great place just now for the Harlem prophet. "Ain't love wonderful, Father Divine?"

Gov. A. B. Chandler gets White House second rating and AAA, TVA, HOLC, FHA Barkley is preferred only on the ground of greater experience. "Dear Alben" has been through all the processing at Washington and it would take so long to turn Happy out as a finished product that he ought to be content to bide a wee.

Happy thinks that he should be guided, as governor of Kentucky, rather by the example of that also smiling governor of New York who thought that when opportunity beckoned he should not defer to his older friend and mentor, Al Smith. The older chief of New York Democracy had led losing battles and although he thought he should have command when the tide of conflict had turned, his less experienced friend decided to reap the advantages. That, said Happy, is his inspiration. It is difficult to deny young ambition the right to profit by shining example.

In the battle of the alphabet Happy, who is A. B. C., and Dear Alben, who is all the letters, are not equally matched because the governor, although he knows the name of every baby in the state and can sing all the hillbilly tunes, cannot pass out federal relief food in paper bags with his name and compliments printed on them. The electorate, torn between bread and song and bewildered in the alphabetical confusion, may listen to the songs but vote for the meal ticket. If Dear Alben wins, as it seems likely he will, it will not be a resounding victory but only the triumph of age and alms over youth and yodeling.

THE REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

The Illinois Republican campaign will begin in earnest with the state convention of the party to be held in Peoria on Aug. 31. First impressions often determine the attitude of the voters. Accordingly it is most important that the convention get the right start.

As the election in November is a national one, the convention should reflect the fact. Great national figures should be invited to address the delegates, such men as Vandenberg or Borah, who can be counted upon to state the issues clearly and forcefully and to inspire the delegates and the radio audience.

The presence of such men will serve another purpose. They will provide a demonstration of the fact that the old guard which brought the Republican party to defeat is out for good. The convention must lose no opportunity to demonstrate that the party has learned its lesson, and that it knows the public will not have the old gang back at any price.

TAX DELINQUENCIES A SCANDAL.

A major scandal of local government is the delinquency in payment of personal property taxes legally assessed. How the people of Chicago and Cook county can expect a continuance of orderly administration of public affairs in this region in the face of the present record of tax payments is a problem for the serious consideration of all who are in the enjoyment of the services of police and fire protection, health facilities, hospitals, parks, and playgrounds, which the community furnishes.

THE TRIBUNE has frequently in the last few months referred to the nonpayment of personal property taxes. The matter is brought to attention again by the county treasurer's release of figures on delinquencies. The load of unpaid taxes increases year by year. But by comparison with taxes on personal property, the payment of real estate taxes—difficult as they are to meet in depression times—furnishes a shining example of good citizenship. Obviously the grip of the local governments upon realty owners by way of titles offers a more tangible control than the power to collect personal taxes, though the difficulties involved in the latter problem are no reason for a placid surrender to the delinquents.

In the six months ending last week the collection of delinquent personal property taxes totaled $1,403,051; more than half of that amount was for delinquencies in 1934. From that year alone there are 22 million dollars still uncollected.

Of all the millions of personalty delinquencies over the period 1928 to 1936 only $1,798,000 was collected in the whole of 1937.

Fifty-two million dollars in valid personal property taxes for 1928, '29, and '30 stand now unpaid, and not a cent of this total was collected last year.

Such an amazing record of inefficiency in collections furnishes an explanation of the city's [and county's] constant struggle to maintain solvency. What the public wonders is whether the authorities are making any sufficient effort to collect these straggling debts.

PROFESSORS WHO LIKE MOSCOW.

Dr. Goodwin Watson, professor of education at Teachers' college, New York, in a talk to a meeting of the National Education association condemned the New York Fair as a chauvinistic exhibition and ballyhoo for business and praised the "notable international achievements" of the Russian soviet union. He said that regardless of opinion about its economic structure and democracy the soviet union had achieved the coöperation of eleven autonomous republics including 189 different peoples speaking 150 languages.

The intellectual satisfaction in American institutions of higher learning derived from admiration of the communistic society presided over by the Great Purger, Joseph Stalin, is strangely perverse. A ballyhoo for free American business, if it is free, and for its achievements must give way to a ballyhoo for a serfdom of mind and body which even a Marxian could justify only as a tortured preliminary to something which has not been achieved at all—and never will be.

The eleven autonomous republics and the 189 different peoples have achieved a coöperation based upon the assassination of every one who could be suspected of having a shade of divergent opinion or of possible political opposition to the ruling tyrant. To such horrors scholastic freedom turns admiring eyes. There is a democracy which can have only a Red idol, an electorate which can have but one candidate, schools which can have but one thought, courts which are used for vengeance, police which are used for political terrorism, and a people which expects nothing else.

The notable international achievements of the soviet union have been to make trouble all over the world. Communism is the daddy of Fascism and of the dictatorships which have blackened out the greater part of the map of Europe, reducing German and Italian scholarship to imbecility and wretched mental poverty. When the professors who admire this get what they so esteem they'll wear their chains and if they don't like them the exchange to shrouds will be quick and easy.

There is something wrong with a pedagog who ballyhoos for the liberties of Russia and it must be in the head.

Editorial of the Day

THE INDIANA SURRENDER.

[Terre Haute Star.]

It is probably unfortunate for the political health of Indiana that Gov. Townsend called off the tilt with Senator Van Nuys—unfortunate, first, because of the multitude of interpretations now being given the peace move throughout the country and, secondly, because Van Nuys on the ballot as an independent might have done much to break the hold of the Townsend-McHale-McNutt Two Per Cent club on Indiana.

There are other unfortunate aspects of the situation. As for example, Senator Van Nuys declared once that he would "blow the state house crowd out of the water." We do not believe that it was an idle threat and it is a certainty that "the state house crowd" needs to be "blown out of the water." Senator Van Nuys undoubtedly has some interesting data on political manipulations in the state house before and since Gov. Townsend took office. It is the kind of information that Hoosiers should have before they go to the polls next November.

It can be assumed now that Senator Van Nuys will let the state house machine rest in peace. Silence on the senator's part probably will be the price of winning the support of the Townsend machine. Such procedure, of course, will make the senator a party to anything the machine may be guilty of doing and this can only create some general disappointment in the senator's independence.

Too, if matters had been left to run their course, it is certain that Hoosiers would have shown the same resentment over Washington's meddling in state affairs as did Pennsylvania and Iowa. If Senator Van Nuys had appeared on the ballot as an independent, it would have meant almost certain defeat of the machine nominee in the face of all the pressure votes it could have mustered.

Lastly, there is reason to believe that chance of Paul Vories McNutt for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1940 is enhanced by healing of the break between Townsend and Van Nuys. As a citizen of the United States and a Hoosier next, one can only feel that anything which would give the nation a reign of Pompous Paul such as Indiana had would be next to a national calamity. Such a thing might be worse than Mr. Roosevelt's "doing something."

COMMENT.

(On the animated ballroom advertisment on Boul Mich.)

Round and round the dancers move,
Each in his appointed groove,
Gyrating with a nice precision
At the engineer's decision.
Impelled by switch on lower story
They sacrifice to Terpsichore,
As with bland and rigid smile
The robots glide through mile on mile.
And to this mechanistic bliss
My net reaction is just this:
Not how like humans is this gem,
But how much more we look like them!

The clubhouse of the Chicago Yacht club is moored to a cluster of wooden piles driven into Belmont harbor. A duck has laid her eggs in the hollow top of one of these piles, Marion Dreyer reports, pale greenish ovals—two last Wednesday, three Thursday, maybe more by now. Today the clubhouse is to be moved to a new mooring a few feet south, and the piles will be pulled up. What will become of the duck eggs? Members of the club recall that several years ago, when a duck laid her eggs on one of the boats, its owner refused to move from his mooring until the eggs were hatched. But probably the construction company won't be sentimental about duck eggs. Foolish hen, who postponed her egg laying until July!

Attention, Scholars Sick of Swing.

The fortune teller in a night club who (commendably) reads Horace might have some interesting comments to make on Odes, Book I. Ode XI.:

Tu ne quaesieris, scire nefas, quem mihi, quem tibi
Finem di dederint, Leuconoe, nec Babylonios
Temptaris numeros. Ut melis quidquid erit pati,
Seu pluris hiemes seu tribuit Iuppiter ultimam
Quae nunc oppositis debilitat pumicibus mare
Tyrrhenum. . . .

J. D. McKian.

There are only two and a half lines more to the ode which are famous for containing the essence of Horace's hedonistic attitude toward life and the carpe diem expression. Continuing where the above left off they are:

. . . sapias, vina liques, et spatio brevi
Spem longam reseces. Dum loquimur, fugerit invidia
Aetas: carpe diem, quam minimum credula postero.

(Be wise and strain the wine! Ev'n as we speak grim Time speeds swift away;
Seize now and here the hour that is, nor trust some later day.)

CUFFNOTES. That fortune teller at the Glass Hat really does read Horace in the original, too. She's a graduate of the University of New York and her father taught Romance languages in Providence, R. I. . . . Frank Buck (Bring 'Em Back Alive) in town on his way to join the Al G. Barnes circus in South Dakota, and at the Chez Paree with Ernie Ricketts, had his finger bandaged from a bite from his pet python. . . . Variety says Trotzky is writing a biography of Stalin. . . . And Billboard that civic leaders of Decatur, Mich., where Edgar Bergen lived and where his mother still lives, are planning a statue to Charlie McCarthy. . . . Richard Barthelmess and his dark-eyed teen-old son and daughter, at the Blackstone on their way home from school in Europe. . . . Conductor Artur Rodzinski hums as he conducts, and Saturday night at Ravinia you could hear him as far back as the last row during an impassioned Wagnerian number. . . . If you heard any one speak of "Ravinia trouble," they mean gravel in open-toed slippers.

A woman guest at a dude ranch went into town to buy a saddle.

"English or western type?" inquired the shop proprietor.

"I don't know the difference," hesitated the woman.

"Well, an English saddle is plain and a western one has a horn," elucidated the proprietor.

"O I don't think I'll need a horn. There doesn't seem very much trafic out here," she decided.

AT RAVINIA.

[Saturday night.]

The loud rumble of trains on the Northwestern line
Delayed Siegfried's Wagnerian trip up the Rhine.

A kind of local Cap'n Streeter, squatting on the curve of the Montrose avenue breakwater a third of a mile out into the lake, and renting space to fishermen to set out their lines, has been chased away by the police. An old fellow with long gray hair, he was dubbed the mayor by the fishermen, and he ran things with a high hand. If you paid rent to the "mayor" you could set your line. And for 10 cents a week he would watch it, reeling it in, and rebaiting it when there was a catch. Nobody seems to know his name—the sobriquet "the mayor" having sufficed.

The Montrose avenue breakwater, made of limestone blocks, that stretches north from the east end of the Montrose avenue beach, is reminiscent of a little fishing village since hot weather began. Hundreds of fishermen and fisherwomen spend days and evenings there. The Montrose and Wilson avenue beacons afford illumination and there are dozens of kerosene lanterns, brought by the fishermen. Lucky anglers with glittering strings of perch occasionally are to be seen leaping from one great block to another, on their way to shore with their catch. Tackle boxes, minnow cans, lunch boxes, sofa pillows, and blankets are strewn along the edges of the breakwater. Nonfishing wives sit knitting. A brisk business in buying and selling fish goes on intermittently. "I got a dozen for 75 cents—big ones," we heard one woman say practically to another in the illumined dusk.

EYESTRAIN AND ITS RELIEF.

THE vicissitudes of modern life call for more eye work than nature ever intended or prepared for. Many persons, as a result, are affected by what is known as eyestrain. It is not only reading and writing, but driving a car, attending moving pictures, and operating various forms of machinery which weigh heavily against good sight.

Manifestations vary from severe headache to moderate discomfort. Burning, itching, the existence of a slight secretion in the morning, redness of the lids, and the repeated occurrence of sties all fall under the mantle of chronic eyestrain. There is no particular type of head pain which can be traced definitly to this source, inasmuch as the distress may be felt anywhere in the head and may or may not be accompanied by nausea and vomiting.

Many of the signs enumerated will occur in the presence of refractive errors. These may be so trifling as not to be attended with a reduction in the ability to see. Nevertheless, minor disorders such as astigmatism, are likely to occasion much annoyance, since they bring about an unconscious but persistent effort on the part of the muscles to provide clear vision.

In some instances fatigue, or an out-of-balance condition of the muscles which move the eyeballs, causes a more or less constant sense of uneasiness. A careful examination—using drops in those under 45 to relax the muscles in the interior of the visual organs—may be essential in order to determine what is wrong.

Refractive errors can, of course, be remedied by the use of proper glasses. Sometimes these need be utilized only for close work, and if the imperfection is considerable, all symptoms generally are relieved. Muscle imbalance, on the other hand, may demand the use of prisms incorporated in the lenses, whereupon exercises are prescribed.

Spectacles, if worn, must be adapted to the situation responsible for the trouble. For example, patients who exhibit exhaustion after driving may need assistance for that period only, whereas those who find it hard to read may employ somewhat stronger lenses while perusing the printed page. This is especially the case with victims of muscle weakness, since a correction for fine print, sewing, and the like may be entirely unfit for distance. When men and women approach the age of 40, glasses for reading are more often necessary. Those who follow certain occupations, therefore, may require some help far earlier than those who use the eyes for larger objects.

The state of one's physique has much to do with the response of the optics. Patients with slight refractive errors who are in excellent health may be utterly unaware of any difficulty whatsoever. Any disease or nervous or mental strain which lowers the general reserve of the body, however, makes fatigue more noticeable and brings to the fore complaints which were not experienced previously. Many recovering from some serious illness will need glasses for a time, but as health is regained, with resistance rebuilt to normal, these aids may be discarded. This is true also of pregnancy as well as the nursing period.

We should recall that there are a few individuals who possess a peculiarly unstable nervous system who will not benefit by spectacles designed for a vocation calling for acute vision. It may be impossible to enable these persons to do much close work easily. By various methods, however, the amount that can be performed can usually be increased.

In general, the problem of eyestrain is serious from the economic standpoint, since it lowers the efficiency greatly. There are so many factors that enter into the picture, however, that each patient should be studied not only from the standpoint of what the eyes are doing, but general health as well.

MIGHT TRY A HOBBY.

S. S. L. R. writes:

1. What causes loss of memory?
2. Does worry predispose a person?
3. What is the best plan for diverting one's thought under such circumstances?

REPLY.

1. Loss of memory is a prominent symptom of hysteria and is usually a transient state. In susceptible individuals it may follow severe emotional shock or some lessening of the power of the circulation. Rest and the cultivation of mental poise are restorative.
2. Worry is a factor.
3. An interest that will absorb time and attention—a hobby powerful enough to drive away mobid thoughts.

MAY EAT TOO FAST.

C. N. C. writes: When a person 42 years old, in perfect health, and regardless of the diet used, goes about the house belching in a very loud manner, is it an ailment or a habit?

REPLY.

Both. Too rapid eating leads to swallowing of air, which is rejected by the victim. Dilatation of the stomach with any gas will disturb digestion. Here is a question involving the theory of probabilities. If the patient is now 42 years old, how long a time will have to elapse before he will become "house broke"?

BETTER HAVE THEM REMOVED.

M. N. writes: I am troubled with moles which have been growing rapidly of late. Is there anything I can do to stop their growth?

REPLY.

Any blemish on the skin that begins to grow should be removed promptly. In certain circumstances moles may become dangerous invaders—particularly if they are increasing in size—even slightly. Do not delay in consulting your physician or a skilled dermatologist.

DISEASE OF THE KIDNEY.

J. M. writes: I would like to know the meaning of the term "acute nephritis." Is it serious? Is it curable?

REPLY.

Acute nephritis [acute Bright's disease] means inflammation of the delicate structures within the kidney. Most cases recover, although some damage to the organs may persist. The malady requires careful management on the part of a skilled physician. It is serious when neglected.

THAT'S ALL RIGHT.

O. U. writes: Is it all right to drink milk right after a meal containing meat?

REPLY.

Quite all right.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY KIMPEI SHEBA.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO.—The Japanese public is beginning to feel the effect of having two strict military disciplinarians in the cabinet as ministers of home affairs and education—Admiral Nobumasa Suetsugu and Gen. Sadao Araki. The police are kept on the jump to curb what the government denounces as "shameful moral laxity in a time of national crisis."

The police started raiding dance halls soon after Admiral Suetsugu became home minister and have nightly been rounding up "suspicious" couples. Dance hall regulations are strict in Japan and it is forbidden for a man to bring in a strange partner. Dancers usually are supplied by the house.

Until Admiral Suetsugu became home minister, however, the police were lax in enforcing this regulation. In the latest raid on a popular dance hall sixteen couples were arrested after the police found them "not quite in order."

At the station further investigation revealed that among those arrested was a 42 year old professor of a school for training priests accompanied by a 25 year old salesgirl of a fashionable shop who had been in one of his classes formerly.

Another man, a 47 year old director of a mining company accompanied by a woman 27 years old whom he told the police was his fiancée. It was found, however, that he has a wife and a 15 year old son.

A man 30 years old was found to be with the 24 year old wife of another man.

Tokio's staid public was horrified by "such scandalous conduct."

After Gen. Araki's appointment as minister of education the police started rounding up university students who had been spending their time in bars, tea rooms, and soda fountains rather than in their classrooms. There is no co-education in Japanese universities and it has been a custom for students to frequent bars and other places where they can be in the company of young members of the opposite sex even during class hours.

Most universities do not require students to attend classes they dislike and frequently a student will spend only one or two hours a day in the classroom. The rest of the time, or during intervals between classes he often will spend in gay company.

On Gen. Araki's orders students were brought by the car loads to police stations. The youngsters were held for several hours and told to confine their studies in the classroom.

PARTNERSHIP.

Chicago, July 4.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I am a partner in a business which opened recently. I am managing the business, and have one employé. My partner and I agreed that I was to get a salary as he is working elsewhere and is receiving a good salary. Can you advise me as to whether he is to share all expenses, including salaries, if the money we take in does not cover all expenses? He said my salary is to come out of the business and if there is no money after paying expenses the business owes me the salary, as he will not invest any more money. O. B.

As you describe the agreement it would seem that your salary should be treated like any other business expenses. In general, the legal remedy where partners cannot agree is for either of them to employ an attorney to institute proceedings to dissolve the partnership. The assets would be sold, the cost of the proceedings, including the attorney's fee, deducted from the sale price and the net proceeds divided.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

DECEASED'S ASSETS.

Chicago, July 3.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A lease on a store for a term of one year was issued, and the lessee expired one month after the lease was in force. During the time the lessee was ill he placed another person [a friend] in charge, and this person who was in charge claims the lessee had given him [1] a paper just before he died, signed by a notary and witnessed, to the effect that in the event of his death the business would belong to him.

2. However, the deceased had a son, who obtained a temporary court order giving him possession of the business for the time being, and [3] the son now wishes a new lease on the store.

4. What is the proper procedure?

5. Would it be proper to issue a new lease in the son's name for a period of a year, taking into consideration the son is operating the business at present, and also keeping in mind the fact the matter of the rightful owner does not seem to be settled as yet, or [6] would the lease of the deceased still be considered in force? S. A.

1. In general, a gift which is not to take effect until the grantor's death is ineffective unless executed in the manner provided for wills.

2. Presumably the wording of the court order would control.

3. It is not clear whether you mean that the original lease has expired, or that the parties are trying to substitute for the new lease before its expiration.

4. Depends on facts that are not before us.

5. Yes, if the original lease has expired and the court order gives the son authority to execute a new one.

6. Yes, if it has not expired.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

PROBATE FOR TITLE.

Chicago, July 6.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A woman's husband died four months ago. They have a home with a loan of $2,000 on it from the HOLC.

1. The widow's name does not appear on the deed as she is his second wife. He died without making a will. He has children by his first wife.

2. Does it have to be probated?

3. Do you have to wait a year before the home can be sold? How long can the widow stay in the home? J. B. F.

1. You do not state in whose name the property actually stands.

2. In any event, it would seem probable that probate would be necessary in order to produce a readily saleable title.

3. In probate proceedings creditors are allowed a year in which to file their claims. If you wish to settle before such year you would have to put up a bond for such claims. Ordinarily, it is better to wait until the expiration of the year.

THE INDIANA SET-UP.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 7.—I am enclosing an editorial from this morning's Terre Haute Star [published this morning as Editorial of the Day] which covers the Van Nuys flop more accurately than the newspapers have generally.

Everybody in Indiana knows that there has been no change of heart on the part of the New Deal, McHale, Elder, Simmons, Townsend, McNutt crowd. It simply means that Van Nuys had too much on them and he was going to put it on the air this fall. They held out until the eve of the convention but he outbluffed them and they had to make a deal. Van Nuys will go along now.

The deal is that he will let the Two Per Cent club and the crooked beer importer-liquor set-up alone in return for the nomination. The labor boys have been promised everything if they will shut up and play ball.

The state house crowd was trembling in their boots over the exposures to be made and McHale would sell his soul to get hold of the national set-up. It was his crowd that bulldozed the state house crowd into surrender.

Arthur Evans missed a lot of this when he covered Indiana recently, but he will find plenty of men in and around Indianapolis during the sessions of the platform committee and the convention who know just as much about the situation as Van Nuys did. M. G.

VOTE BUYING LARGESSES.

Keokuk, Ia., July 4.—Regarding your editorial today, "Old Fashioned Boston." I am unable to decide whether Mayor Tobin declined this grant because the city of Boston would be required to raise $1,700,000 more or because he did not believe in the shocking theory that Washington should pick our pockets of all our available change, then give part of it back to us as a vote getting present?

I am sincerely hoping that Mr. Tobin refused the insult because of its origin in plainly unsound and dishonest theory and practice. Recently our mayor and the First district's congressman were grabbing for a vote getting $157,000 to help build Keokuk's new waterworks system?

They got the so-called "grant" and I do not know how many votes are expected in the fall elections, but I do know of quite a number that they are not going to find "in the bag."

My view of the matter is that our government's violent spending must come to a quick stop, and if the city of Boston has started the fashion of declining such magnanimity from our Washington servants I shall be encouraged that other cities may take a rational view of this thinly veiled effort to control votes, even though our little Keokuk didn't.

BIRDWELL SUTLIVE.

THEY HAVE LOTS OF VOTES.

Chicago, July 8.—I have wondered why our labor unions are not forced to show a business statement and made to pay a corporate tax. Unions started out to be a safeguard for a union worker so that when he was out of work he could get so much a week to live on until he could be placed again.

With all the money put into the unions, where does it go? Why aren't they made to run like any other legitimate business and pay taxes where taxes are due? L. H.

TRAFIC COP'S WHISTLE DISTURBS.

Gary, Ind., July 3.—Now that the Grant park concerts are with us again many out of town people like myself listen to them over the radio.

I wonder if your great newspaper could do anything about eliminating the nefarious trafic cop who creates a disturbance by tooting his whistle at regular intervals? C. C.

DISPUTES MR. DAY'S REPORT.

New York, July 9.—Upon returning from Europe I find a Riga dispatch from Mr. Donald Day, published in THE TRIBUNE of May 23, which contains a number of misstatements concerning my recent visit to Poland.

Your correspondent declares that I said "emphatically that participation of the United States in any future major war in Europe was assured." This is entirely incorrect. At the request of the representative of a leading Polish paper, I gave an interview in which, among other things, I said that it would be "difficult" for the United States to keep out of any general war lasting very long. This statement is quite conservative compared with the President's Chicago speech of Oct. 5, 1937.

When your correspondent goes further to say that my activities may even influence Poland's foreign policy, he is again drawing on his own imagination. He says finally that American diplomats are displeased with my activities. As a matter of fact, the American diplomatic representatives in Warsaw went out of their way in extending facilities and courtesies to me, and I was particularly careful not to represent myself as an official spokesman for the United States.

What the origin or purpose of this dispatch was I do not know, but I can only say that it is far below the standards of accurate reporting which the American public is entitled to expect from a reputable newspaper.

RAYMOND LESLIE BUELL,
President Foreign Relations Assn.

THE "TOO LATE" METHOD.

Chicago, July 9.—In his expressed determination to force through his defeated dictator bill in the next session of congress, Mr. Roosevelt claims that he never advocated the abolition of the accounting office—he wanted its functions split in two—"the government to check expenditures as made, and congress to check them at the end of the year."

To provide that congress check the expenditures at the end of the year, under our present régime, after the bird is out of the bush, might be called the "too late method." LEO S. THEIN.

THE BLACK LEOPARD.

Benton, Ill., July 5.—Last summer I visited the zoo in St. Louis with my children. Of all the animals I saw the black leopard looked the most ferocious and dangerous. Its appearance made a lasting impression on me.

I therefore agree with Cartoonist Orr that this animal should be the symbol of the New Deal, which is equally ferocious and dangerous to the welfare of our country.

May we have more cartoons along this line. S. M. WARD.

ADVERTISE IN THE TRIBUNE

2 GIRLS KILLED, 5 OTHERS HURT IN AUTO CRASH

Picnic Party Ignores Light Near Libertyville.

Two young women were killed and another girl and four young men were seriously injured last night in a collision of two automobiles at highway 42A and Buckley road, four miles east of Libertyville.

The girls killed, according to the Lake county sheriff's office, were Miss Charlotte O'Connor, 21, of 15055 Stratmoor avenue, Detroit, Mich., and Miss Betty Czar, 21 years old. Miss Czar's address was given as 1630 North Kedzie avenue, but she was not known there. The injured girl is Miss Mildred Steinke, 19, of 3530 North Claremont avenue, cousin of Miss O'Connor. Her skull was fractured.

Returning from Picnic.

The three girls were returning from an all day picnic at Cedar Lake with Walter Hehn, 22, of 4693 Kasson avenue; Andrew Schneph, 22, of 3700 North Bell avenue, and Raymond Kosick, 21, of 3649 North Bell avenue. Hehn was driving east in Buckley road. According to a witness, he drove into highway 42A without stopping for a stop sign and crashed into the northbound car of Lewis Knutson, 20, of 10010 Lafayette avenue. Both cars overturned. Schneph suffered a skull fracture and Knutson a neck fracture. Hehn and Kosick were internally injured. All the injured, including the girl, were taken to the St. Therese hospital in Waukegan.

Fourteen Injured in Crash.

Fourteen persons were injured yesterday when two automobiles collided with terrific force at 72d street and Kedzie avenue. One of the cars overturned. The other plunged into a vacant lot.

Riding in one car were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Evinsky; their children, Josephine, 13, and Virginia, 11; Mrs. Anne Isdonas, and her daughters, Dolores, 6, and Mary Anna, 2. All live at 3431 Lowe avenue.

Visitors Among Injured.

In the other machine were Mr. and Mrs. George Fales, 4348 West 25th street; Mr. and Mrs. William Koukola, 2758 South Ridgeway avenue; Mrs. Mary Petech and her son Roger, 16 months old, of North Tonawanda, N. Y., and Mrs. Madge Umlauf of North Tonawanda, N. Y.

Police said that Evinsky was driving a car nineteen years old.

Evinsky was taking his family and the Isdonas family to a picnic in Justice Park. Fales, who was taking his wife and the others in his car to an outing at Hobart, Ind., was charged by police with reckless driving.

A woman identified by cards in her purse as Miss Rosalie Kraus, about 37 years old, living at 62d street and Ingleside avenue, was killed last night in an automobile accident in front of 18028 Torrence avenue, Lansing. Her companion, Louis Edelman, 47, of 7033 East End avenue, a mechanic, suffered a collar bone fracture.

They had just left a restaurant at the Torrence avenue address and were backing their car into the road when the car was struck by a machine driven by Ludwig Grothaus, 29, of Dyer, Ind. He was slightly hurt. Miss Kraus was thrown to the pavement by the impact.

Child Hit by Car Dies.

Cecelia Urbanski, 6 years old, died at St. Anthony hospital yesterday of injuries suffered Saturday night when she was struck near her home at 3757 South California avenue by a car driven by Gary M. Robinson, 2322 West 24th street.

Victim of a hit-and-run driver, Miss Molly Braul, 58 years old, was taken to the Henrotin hospital yesterday critically injured. She was struck at Division and Larrabee streets.

A man killed Thursday night at Michigan avenue and 13th street by a car driven by Miss Josephine Rix of Carthage, Miss., was identified yesterday as Charles Coffin, 54 years old, formerly of Harvey, Ill. He had a minor police record.

Walter Cochran, his wife Hazel, and Mrs. Lillian Katoll, all of Evanston, were injured last night when their automobile left highway 83 near Racine, Wis. Mrs. Cochran and Mrs. Katoll received serious injuries.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday, 421 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 327 were killed in Chicago, where 9,598 were injured in the same period.

Haifa Divided Into Arab and Jewish Camps.

JERUSALEM, July 10.—(AP)—Sporadic bombings and other attacks kept Palestine in a state of tension today and raised the total casualties in the current wave of disorders to more than 260.

At least sixteen persons were injured today and the death of one person on the northern frontier last night was reported.

The new casualties gave Palestine a toll of fifty-nine dead and more than 200 wounded since rioting broke out on July 5 after the hanging on June 29 of Benjamin Joseph, a 19 year old Jew.

Haifa was the main seat of trouble today. A bomb thrown at a bus in the mixed quarter of the city early in the morning seriously injured the Jewish driver and slightly wounded two others. The assailant escaped.

Ten Jews Wounded on Bus.

Ten Jews were wounded seriously when another bus in Haifa was bombed in the late afternoon near the grounds of the government hospital. The bomb was thrown despite machine gun posts manned by marines and other troops on rooftops in the vicinity. The bomber escaped.

Haifa virtually was divided into Arab and Jewish camps and British authorities rushed to the port and surrounding district every soldier not needed in Jerusalem or southern areas to maintain order.

Soldiers and police in Haifa were augmented by 450 marines and sailors from the British warship Repulse. The steel helmeted troops patroled the streets and on one occasion checked a disturbance developing after a bomb exploded without casualties at the same spot where rioting broke out last Wednesday.

Rivals Kept Separated.

Arabs who rushed from stores in the market place were driven back by patrols that later partitioned off Jewish stores and gathering places from the Arab section. Sailors carried bayonetted rifles.

A patrol in an armored car on the northern frontier last night encountered a large armed band near the Jewish settlement at Hanuta and killed one member. The remainder scattered after an hour's fight.

Since Friday's bombing, Jerusalem itself has been quiet but the curfew still is in force. Trading between Jews and Arabs has stopped. Three companies of British troops were assisting the Jerusalem police. Streets were being patroled with the aid of heavily armed trucks.

Philippine Troops Patrol Resort City; Curb Strikers

MANILA, P. I., July 11.—[Monday.]—(AP)—Philippine troops poured into the resort city of Baguio, 125 miles north of here, today to help maintain order in a strike of bus drivers.

Benny Goodman Signs for Gala Ravinia Evening

BY CECIL SMITH.

Yesterday's docket of Ravinia news concerns both the immediate past and the not too distant future. Before the prolonged applause and cries of "bravo!" had died down after Artur Rodzinski's final concert with the Chicago Symphony orchestra, the exilarating fact was whispered in my ear that Benny Goodman and his orchestra have signed a contract to play at Ravinia park Wednesday evening, Aug. 3. This will be the season's gala evening at the north shore pavilion and will be a unique opportunity for Chicago's jitterbugs to rub elbows with the devotees of the classics.

There will be another season in 1939 and a strong movement is afoot to encourage Mr. Rodzinski to return then.

In tribute to his compatriots, the Cleveland conductor gave over the middle of yesterday's program to works by Polish composers, and a delegation of members of the Polish Arts club attended the concert. The Polish items were the little known but effectively written symphonic poem, "The Steppe," by Sigismund Noskowski, and a pair of captivating dances from Moniuszko's "Halka."

The rest of the afternoon brought to hearing other music composed east of the Berlin-Rome axis, Smetana's overture to "The Bartered Bride," and Tschaikowsky's Fourth Symphony, played with superb theatricalism and the loudest brass tone ever heard in the history of the world.

Mr. Rodzinski's Saturday evening program, devoted wholly to standard works of Weber, Brahms and Wagner, attracted the largest audience of Ravinia's first two weeks to the park.

Weber's overture to "Der Freischütz" was followed by the Fourth Symphony of Brahms. Mr. Rodzinski conducted the symphony with great vigor and bluntness, giving a performance that may better be termed an exposé of the music than an interpretation. For all its trenchant and original thematic material, the Fourth is a much less blandishing symphony than its predecessors. Conductors brought up in the German tradition of the late nineteenth century, such as Frederick Stock, know many devices of rhythmic and tonal manipulation to conceal at least partly the bluff and even ugly instrumentation of the symphony.

Even though Mr. Rodzinski may be aware of these shrewd—and quite justifiable—subterfuges, he employed none of them.

The post intermission brace of Wagner excerpts, the prelude and love death from "Tristan and Isolde," Siegfried's Rhine journey from "The Twilight of the Gods," and the boisterous "Ride of the Valkyries" were all presented with tonal beauty and deep feeling for their dramatic significance.

Thursday night Willem Van Hoogstraten enters upon a four day assignment as conductor at Ravinia. On his first program Mario Chamlee, Metropolitan Opera tenor, will be soloist.

Choruses Add to Pleasure of Forest Picnics

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Did you ever get sunburnt at a concert?

This unique opportunity was offered yesterday to the tens of thousands of picnickers who filled five of the forest preserves of Cook county. In Daniel Ryan woods, Thatcher woods, Caldwell woods, Palos hills, and Harms woods five choral organizations of the Chicago district gave the second of a series of nine forest programs. The cycle is being sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and the Cook county commissioners and will continue each Sunday afternoon through the remainder of July and all of August.

You don't have to get sun burnt. Thousands yesterday chose to hear the concerts from the shade of the trees which stand around all of the glades selected for the programs. The music in general was light and informal, designed to match the mood of the summer holiday. Slacks, overalls, shorts—anything at all in the way of costume could have been found among the throngs who stood, sauntered, bicycled, or lay about the scene.

In crowded Daniel Ryan woods, 87th street and Western avenue, the girls of the Immanuel Lutheran Junior choir found a place reserved for them among the large organized picnics which filled the preserve. Under the direction of Theodore F. Gose, the choir sang such favorites as "Smilin' Through," "Drink to Me Only with Thine Eyes," and "The Old Refrain."

Following are the reports which were telephoned in from the other preserves:

One of the large crowds of the day—some 4,000—gathered in Thatcher woods at Chicago avenue and Thatcher road to hear the West Suburban Glee club, directed by Carl O. Behnke, sing three groups of songs.

The woodland resounded as the thirty voices of the club swung into spirited marching measures, much applauded by the audience. Another group was made up of sacred songs, including Negro spirituals, and a third of humorous and folk numbers.

In Caldwell woods, Devon and Milwaukee avenues, the entertainment was furnished by a chorus of 40 boys and girls from Tabor Lutheran school. Particularly appreciated by their hearers was a group of American, Welsh, German, and Dutch folk songs, appropriate to the romantic woodland setting.

Beside Maple lake in the Palos park preserve the Northwest Women's chorus, directed by Mrs. Sylvia Holtsberg, lifted carefully trained voices in a varied repertoire. Most favored by the audience were sentimental numbers such as "The Rosary," "I Love a Little Cottage," and "The World Is Waiting for the Sunrise." The listeners also had a community sing and three volunteers from among them sang "The Bells of St. Mary's."

Selections from the best known operas were on the program of the Lake Shore Opera players, who performed before nearly a thousand in Harms woods, west of Evanston. Howard Tooley is director of this chorus and Russell Nelson and Miss Helen Rudolph soloists.

Pianos for the concerts were furnished by the Baldwin Piano company and loud speaker systems for those at Palos Park and Dan Ryan woods were set up by the Clark Sound service of Oak Park.

A display of cumulus clouds, spectacular enough to draw attention away from the music, a tentative patter of rain and even a businesslike lightning flash—none of these phenomena was sufficient to discourage the musicians charged with the presentation of last night's Grant park concert and the program ran smoothly to its appointed conclusion.

Richard Czerwonky directed the Chicago Philharmonic orchestra in the music of Tschaikowsky, Weber, R. Strauss, Dvorak, and Sibelius. Harriet Horton-Brewer, contralto, offered the "Voce di donna" from Ponchielli's "La Giaconda" and the Spanish Serenade of Bizet. The audience taxed the seating capacity of the park.

Learning About Horse Shows

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Alicia finds mother's lap a splendid place from which to watch all sorts of interesting things. When this picture was taken she and her mother, Mrs. Paul B. Magnuson Jr., were spectators at an informal horse show. Alicia will be showing ponies before long, no doubt, for her parents and her grandfather, Dr. Magnuson, and his wife are all splendid riders and often participate in local shows.

Vacation Togs Are Plentiful, Low in Price

BY RHEA SEEGER.

If by chance you need encouragement to pack and get out of town, you'll find the needed impetus in the vacation clothes collections. These have been assembled by experts, good looking wardrobes for every section of the globe—hot, cold, or medium climate.

Even the hardy souls heading for the north woods, where you need wools and sturdy outfits, can wander into any of the stores, tell their needs, and in less time than it takes to tell the story be completely and practically outfitted from head to toe.

Slacks of coarse texture have homespun effects in bold, bright colors, with even dizzier colored shirts for tops. Sea sirens and beach loungers are presented with record breaking assortments of sharkskin slacks, printed linen shirts, streamlined satin lastex swim suits, and new beach coats or capes in the newest candlewick fabric.

Dirndl dresses for the very young, play suits, and the best of the suit and detachable skirt combines come in slick, bright prints and banded cottons. Printed jersey swim suits, made with snappily flared skirts and nicely designed tops, are grand finds for vacation bound conservatives. Huge floppy hats for country life or beach wear feature the widest brims yet unpacked. There are any number of sombreros in floppy straw, too, and the world's best assortment of play and spectator sports footgear. See them in red, blue, yellow, brown and white linen with good built up heels. If you insist upon color combines, you can find those, too.

Stunning smooth flannel skirts, matched with slipover sweaters and a cardigan jacket, are priced way down for the budgeted vacationers, and the color combines possible are legion. Skirt collectors will like the gray chambray skirts with gray and white striped chambray shirts for general wear, to alternate with the flannel and sweater outfits. You'll find anything and everything you ever wanted in a hurry in these vacation showings. And the prices will keep you smiling for days.

Looking at Hollywood by Ed Sullivan

The Week's Wash

Hollywood, Cal., July 10.—Motion picture bankers have sent out the word to Hollywood film moguls to cut down on the horse racing publicity. . . . Now it's Wendy Barrie and Stan Kahn. . . . Hollywood, not easily upset, really gasped when it got a newsreel load of Darryl Zanuck in pearl gray topper at the English race courses. . . . Despite all the publicity, David Selznick will tell you that he has no deal with M.-G.-M., and no commitment with Gable and Norma Shearer to emote in "Gone with the Wind." My guess that it was a publicity stunt evidently was correct. The letter writers, incidentally, turn thumbs down on Norma as Scarlett. . . . Ronald Colman very attentive to attractive Benita Hume at the Frank Lloyd anniversary. One of the prettier girls there was a nonprofessional, Mrs. Jim Gillespie. You knew her on page one as Ruth Elder. . . . "You Can't Take It with You" is Frank Capra's finest directorial effort. It won't be roadshowed, hitting the exchanges on Labor day. . . . Margaret Lindsay's new honey is a Bostonian. . . . "Marie Antoinette" cost about $2,500,000. . . . The Inglewood track has hit the $11,000,000 mark already, with ten days to go. That means a $15,000,000 gross, which is sensational.

Within the memory of the oldest settlers there never has been an opening to compare in glamor with the première of "Marie Antoinette" at the Carthay Circle. It was a parade of Hollywood biggies. At one period, on the platform where we were broadcasting, were Clark Gable, Tyrone Power, Robert Taylor, Spencer Tracy, Fernand Gravet, Charles Boyer, and Jimmy Stewart. I suppose that they represented at least $10,000,000 in feminine heart palpitations. It was funny to watch the movie stars getting nervous before stepping to the microphone to read their little typewritten cards. M.-G.-M. took no chances on ad libbers. Everybody's speech was typed out. It seemed that all of Los Angeles had turned out for the opening, to line the streets leading to the theater. The cops estimated that there were 100,000 people lining the theater approaches and filling the grandstands.

The girls gave Gable the biggest hand. The big Ohioan was togged out in white tie and tails and he really looked the part of a heartbuster. Carole Lombard was on his arm. Bob Taylor, with Barbara Stanwyck, was telling me enthusiastically of his trip to New York, and how nice the newspaper crowd had been to him. "I talked to them just the way you told me," he grinned, "and it worked out swell." . . . Jimmy Stewart, tall and lanky, arrived at the broadcast platform at 8 p. m., but didn't go on until about 8:35. "I'm awfully cold," he told Don Wilson and Pete Smith. "Nervous?" queried Wilson. Stewart nodded. Stewart, Princetonian of the class of '32, is leaving for the east for a quickie vacation. Not since Gary Cooper clicked in films has a young player attracted so much attention as this Tiger six footer. He has a certain homespun quality that registers attractively on the screen, a blend of small town honesty and adolescence. His "Shopworn Angel" characterization was one of the acting gems of recent months.

Plenty of glamor girls on hand for the opening. Lombard with Gable, Crawford with Tone, Hedy La Marr with Reggie Gardiner, Jeanette MacDonald with Gene Raymond, Anita Louise, Wendy Barrie. I didn't see Myrna Loy. The La Marr eyeful, who startled the town recently by out-Dietriching Dietrich in "Algiers," was very nervous at the première. Her Reggie Gardiner was playing his first important dramatic part, but her worries were needless. He was excellent as Artois. Florence Rice arrived on the arm of Adrian. Jock Whitney with Liz . . . Margaret Sullavan with Leland Hayward . . . The Bob Montgomerys . . . Mitch Leisen with the Jack Bennys . . . the Harry M. Warners. It was Mrs. Warner's first night out since the auto crash.

Didn't see Joseph Schildkraut. He turns in an amazingly fine performance in "Marie Antoinette" as the villainous duc d'Orleans, so perfectly shaded, in fact, that he'll be up for the Academy supporting award again. To replace Laughton, M.-G.-M. dug up Robert Morley and he was magnificent in the rôle. Unfortunately, it will be difficult to get much value from Morley, as the problem of casting him will be difficult.

SYNOPSIS.

On board the S. S. Panama Queen, sailing from Los Angeles to New York via Panama, are Anne Sydney, who has a part in a Broadway play, and her crippled and embittered sister, Mena; Arnold Vernon, rich English motion picture producer, and his coldly beautiful wife, Claire; Isobel Butler, who has a stateroom next to the Vernon suite and hopes to get in pictures through him; Alex Reed, young surgeon returning to work after two years' illness, and gossipy Mrs. Panting. Isobel meets and arouses Vernon's interest. Anne and Alex are mutually attracted. Mena spitefully tells Alex that Anne is a heartless flirt. Pride causes Anne to hold aloof from him. Dr. Neil Andrews, a friend of Alex's, joins the ship in Mexico. He wants to get married and thinks Anne meets his ideals. Alex's efforts to help Mena inspire her with a neurotic passion. Vernon has a heart attack in Isobel's room. She calls Alex away from Anne to help her get Vernon secretly to his own suite.

THUNDER IN THE AIR.

Anne had seen Alex return and was strolling up the deck behind him to keep the rendezvous. She turned away without either of them seeing her and vanished into the darkness. She went down to her stateroom and went to bed, hoping to fall asleep before Mena came down, but the result was a failure. An hour went by that seemed like a year, and her limbs tingled with restlessness.

She got up again, put on a filmy gray dress that made her look like a moth, and went up on deck to dissipate her unhappiness in swift violent motion. She turned away from the veranda deck where dancing was still in progress and shunning the boat deck made for the swimming pool at the forward end of the ship which was, as usual, deserted.

Neil, with characteristic persistence, found her there. "So you like some of the things I teach you?"

"If you mean this quiet corner, yes. It happens to suit the mood I'm in."

He leaned with his back to the rail staring at her with his head on one side, a quizzical smile lifting his mocking lips. "And what is the mood? Or is it a secret?"

"I'm in a mood to be left alone," she said.

"And I'm in the mood to dally with you. Shall we toss for it or let the stronger win?"

"Why do you pick on me?" she exclaimed. "Why don't you chase after some of the other girls on the ship? There are so many."

"Because you're the most attractive, Anne. I always go for the best even if I don't get it."

She had to laugh at him. "And you probably get all you want in life by the simple method of wearing your victim down."

"Why Anne! You're beginning to see reason!"

"O, you're impossible," she laughed. "But you do me good. You're so funny."

He put out his hand, caught her wrist and drew her to the rail beside him. "I want to know about you. Tell me about this dazzling career that's waiting for you in New York."

Telling him, it sounded very ordinary and tame. She could not paint it with her visions as she could with Alex. Something vital was missing.

"It seems an empty thing to give up love for," was his natural comment. "A great girl wasted."

She covered a yawn with her hand. "Good heavens," he said, "is that what I do to you?"

"No. It's the hour and the pace of the day. I'll be going now if you don't mind."

He went with her. At the top of the companionway they moved into the shadows of the shelter deck. A sudden breeze blew her hair across his lips. He caught its fragrance. His arms went round her.

She felt the hard, rhythmic beats of his heart and her own quickeened. She turned up her face and he crushed his mouth down on hers. Then he released her, turned abruptly and went without saying good-night.

Anne stood where he had left her, breathing hard, the playful wind whipping her hair. Footsteps approached her, one clear—one dragging. Mena's gay mood had gone as swiftly as it had come. Her voice was cantankerous—"Anne, I've been looking for you everywhere. Are you never coming to bed?"

The voice hurt Anne like a touch on raw nerves. She went, not trusting herself to speak.

Anne was relieved when the light went out over Mena's bed. She sat up then, arms linked round her knees, eyes on the dipping stars outside the ports. She was poignantly unhappy.

She knew why she had kissed Neil. Because she was lonely and disappointed and bewildered. His warm strength had been comforting and his pursuit of her soothing to her wounded ego. She knew it all. She had known it at the time and had not been able to stop herself. Now she felt as if she had been unfaithful to Alex. As if she could not face the clear look in Alex's eyes.

Mena's voice. "Why don't you lie down? You stay out till all hours, and then you can't be considerate enough to give me a little peace."

"O God," groaned Anne, "what wouldn't I give to have a room to myself and be alone."

Mena's unpleasant laugh. "Then you could be up to all sorts of things you could hide from me—goings-on I wouldn't know anything about."

"Mena!"

"I saw you up on the deck kissing Dr. Andrews. No wonder you want to hide what you do. A stranger you've known for two days!"

The red flame of Anne's temper rushed up and enveloped her. The words came tumbling out. Nothing could stay them now. "You spy! You sneak! It makes me ill to think that any one like you should be the same flesh and blood—my sister!"

Mena's temper expressed itself in a slow cold bitterness. "That's exactly how I feel when I see you throwing yourself at men's heads—making yourself cheap."

Anne leaped out of bed and began to throw on her clothes in the dark. "I've got to get out of here right now or I'll kill you. Some day somebody will. You can depend upon it."

The voice from the bed was slow, almost lazy. "Take care or that vile temper of yours will get you into trouble."

Anne flung open the door and rushed out. "Whither away?" inquired Spanish gallant William Flagg meeting her on the staircase.

"O, Mr. Flagg, I'd be so glad if I could have a stateroom to myself if it isn't too late——"

"It would be for some of the passengers, but not for the favorites. There are three to choose from. Come along with me."

Anne took the one furthest away from the one she had just left. Mr. Flagg rang the bell and ordered a steward to fix the room and put on the linen. Anne went back to Mena's room and collected the necessary things.

Mr. Flagg went to see Alex Reed before he turned in. "You'll be glad to know Mr. Vernon's all right now, Dr. Reed. I just saw the doctor."

"That's good. He's too fine a chap to have anything like that happen to him."

The purser was philosophic. "Guess he'll pop off that way in the end. He's used to having them. And his wife's a pill. She won't prolong his life with her gentle care. Or I'm as blind as a day old kitten."

He made himself comfortable on Alex's sofa. "Funny what a lot of women are pills. We have a couple every trip. There's that spoiled brat, Mena Sydney. How I'd like to turn her over my knee and spank her."

Alex concurred. "It would do her good. Pity no one else ever thought of it."

"Well, tonight the worm turned. I met her sister on the stairs with her hair standing on end and her eyes popping out in a fine rip-roaring temper. I came to the rescue and fixed her up in another room."

"It doesn't surprise me." Alex did not want to discuss Anne. He changed the subject. "I expect you get plenty of drama to keep you busy every trip."

"No. Sometimes it's as dull as a Sunday school outing. But this one's a daisy. Everywhere I go I feel thunder in the air."

BY NANCY CABOT.

"Washington Feather" is one of the oldest applique patterns, and also is known as the "Prince of Wales Plume." The pattern has been used in a variety of ways. Some persons make four large blocks surrounded by a deep border; others make one huge "Washington Feather" for a full size bed; and still others prefer the 17½ inch block illustrated today, set together in an alternate arrangement with plain blocks. The extremely old quilts were made with the feathers of printed and plain materials. A "Washington Feather" quilt was used in Mrs. Rowan's bedroom in Bardstown, Ky., and it was in Mrs. Rowan's home that her cousin, Stephen Foster, wrote "My Old Kentucky Home." The finished quilt, containing thirteen applique and twelve plain blocks, each measuring 17½ inches square, has an overall dimension of 92 inches.

Avoiding These Habits Assures You of Charm

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

In the interests of charm development, let us make a brief review of certain things the charming woman does not do:

She does not pry in conversation, nor does she cross-examine. She assumes that she is being told all that she is wanted to know.

She does not continually flatter. When praise is due for some good thing said or done, or for some new frock or hat, a quietly expressed appreciation of it is what she extends. She knows that gushing, flowing, flattering phrases make her sound silly and are unconvincing. In the business world, it might be added, she does not approach a person with a favor to ask of that person and proceed to flatter lavishly. Gauche is the word for such behavior.

She does not talk about her troubles, except to an intimate friend who comes to her to help. Her health, her finances or whatever may be bothering her, she knows, are subjects which do not interest casual friends. They make bad conversation and detract from a woman's charm.

She does not gossip—not continually, that is. We all love to gossip now and then, and up to a certain point there is no harm in it. But to be know as the type of woman to whom others are warned never to disclose a word because it will be carried back, is an indictment the charming woman would take pains to avoid.

She does not pretend to prefer the "old" ways to modern. Many women pretend impatience with modern ideas simply because they are too lazy, too disinterested to find out what really is being said and written today. They sometimes pretend a Victorian attitude, with the mistaken idea that this will make them seem more gentle and ladylike. Adaptability to the age in which she lives is one of the secrets of vitality in personality.

She does not preach duty to others. She does not correct other's mistakes.

She never neglects her grooming as she knows that the value she puts upon herself is the value by which she will be appraised by others.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Make a note of this if you're vacation-bound:

There is a beauty bag you'll be wanting. It's an accessory bag, fitted with the basic preparations you need any time, anywhere, as well as make-up aids. Though it is inexpensive it's a piece of luggage you'll want to show off a bit. The finish is alligator in black, brown, white, or a stunning burgundy red.

This is unlike most beauty kits in shape and size. It looks like a large handbag, not at all bulgy; you can carry it as such or use a long strap [which you'll find inside it] to wear it over your shoulder.

The rounded top has a zipper closure. Zip this open and you'll find plenty of welcome surprises. Strapped securely into place are lipstick, powder, and rouge—and when you buy your bag you may choose your shades. Below these, each in its little compartment, you'll find the things you need to look fresh and well cared for. There is cleansing cream, of course; skin tonic, a generous supply of tissue cream, and a powder brush. This last we think a great inspiration. Every woman who has used a powder brush wants to be faithful to it, but the loose brush knocking around in luggage is rather a problem. Here you find it just where you want it.

There is ample space in this bag for other items you might want on special occasions. You could convert it into a compact beach bag in no time. There is plenty of room for sun glasses, cigarets, or your favorite sun preparation. Its best rôle, though, is as a beauty bag to take with you on vacations or week-ends. All who see will be envious.

ELEANOR NANGLE.

Start Helm-Swigert Prenuptial Parties.

Several parties are being given for Miss Marjorie Helm, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Helm of Evanston, who is to be married to Dr. Verne Wilson Swigert, son of Mrs. Charles J. Swigert of Boone, Ia., on July 23. Miss Harriette Ann Pribble of Evanston gave a garden tea on Saturday and tomorrow Mr. and Mrs. William Howard Spurgeon of Chicago will give a cocktail party. A sports party will be given by Mr. and Mrs. Bruce D. Mateer of Deerfield next Sunday, and Mrs. Kearney Roane of Evanston will give a handkerchief shower for Miss Helm a week from today. On July 19 Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Tourtelot Jr. will entertain at a beach party. The spinster dinner will be given by Miss Jeannette L. Hickox on July 21 and the same night Theron A. Swigert will give the bachelor dinner for his brother. The eve of the wedding Mr. and Mrs. Helm will give the bridal dinner for their daughter.

The wedding will take place at 6:30 o'clock at the First Methodist Episcopal church in Evanston with the Rev. Harris Franklin Rall officiating. A reception will follow at the Woman's Club of Evanston.

Mrs. Standiford Helm of Rochester, Minn., will be matron of honor and Miss Virginia Helm will be maid of honor for her sister. The bridesmaids will be Miss Helen C. Harvey, Miss Hickox, Mrs. Mateer, Miss Erma Swigert, and Miss Delores Swigert, both of Boone, and Mrs. Tourtelot. Theron Swigert will be best man for his brother and the ushers will be Dr. Howard Benjamin of Grand Rapids, Mich.; Phillip R. Cherry; Dr. Helm, brother of the bride; Mr. Mateer; Mr. Tourtelot, and Dr. Malcolm Todd.

Mrs. Newton S. Noble Jr. to Visit Parents in East.

Mrs. Newton S. Noble Jr., the former Jane Valentine, and her baby daughter are going to Ashland, Mass., in August to spend three weeks with her parents, the Joseph L. Valentines, at their summer home. Mr. and Mrs. Valentine have been in the east since June. The John W. Valentines, who celebrated their ninth wedding anniversary yesterday, are living in New York now so it is easy to get to the Valentines' farm.

Mr. and Mrs. William Deshler Cox have gone to Coleman lake, Wis. Mrs. Cox's sister, Miss Charlotte Nicholas of Roswell, N. M., who has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Cox, went with them to Coleman lake where she will spend a week before going east to visit friends.

Mrs. Roswell B. Mason has gone to her summer home at Camp Wipigaki, near Lac du Flambeau, Wis., to be away until after Labor day. Miss Julia Mason has gone to Coronado, Cal., to visit her sister and brother-in-law, the Gilbert Smiths. After spending three weeks at Community House camp, Mrs. Mason's youngest daughter, Sylvia, will join her at Wipigaki.

Mrs. William B. Elliott and Daughter Go Abroad.

Two members of Camp Wipigaki's summer colony are missing this year, Mrs. William B. Elliott and her daughter, Miss Lydia. They have gone abroad and will not return from Europe until Sept. 20.

Miss Esther Buchen, who was graduated from Bryn Mawr last year, is spending six weeks at the University of Wisconsin summer school this summer and visiting her grandmother, Mrs. Louis R. Head, in Madison.

Mr. and Mrs. Austin D. Jenkins will spend the summer in Winnetka while their unmarried daughters go east. Miss Ann Jenkins is to be a counselor at a camp in Duxbury, Mass. Miss Janet Jenkins is going first to visit friends in Osterville, on Cape Cod, and then to Camden, Me., where she will spend the rest of the summer in a camp. The former Martha Jenkins, a bride of last September, and her husband, Willard L. Monro, will be at home in Chicago for the summer.

Boys and Girls, Want to See "Lord Jeff?" Then Write to Sally

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Tribune Charities, Inc.]

Didn't I tell you you'd like the announcement about our next party, boys and girls? On Thursday, July 21, 50 boys and 50 girls will come with me to see "Lord Jeff," an exciting movie about children and featuring all your favorite child stars.

You'll see Mickey Rooney, freckled and funny, and Freddy Bartholomew being the nastiest little boy you ever saw until he learns better, and a little English boy named Terry Kilbourn, a tiny little fellow you'll enjoy.

Bill Bishop of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer arranged a special screening of the picture in a private projection room. It's a regular theater but a miniature one.

Winning an invitation will be no trouble if this party just suits your taste, because about all you have to do is prove to me that you'll get a kick out of coming with me. Write a letter and tell me why you think you'd like to be included in my group and be sure to tell me your full name, address, and age. If you forget any of these items you can't be a winner.

Each child must write his or her own request for an invitation, too. Selections will be made on Thursday, so be sure to mail your letter so that it will be here in time. Address: Sally Joy Brown, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

Easy to Make and to Wear

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

If you are seeking a simple summer dress, the lines of which are really smart and comfortable, look at the pattern we're offering today. It requires a minimum of inexpensive material, and it is remarkably easy to make. The style is one that will please both miss and matron. A soft rolled collar graces the V neckline. The trimming may be ruffling or lace, and is used on the full sleeves, too. The latter, by the way, are cut kimono style, in with the shoulderline. The front closing is enhanced by buttons, and a narrow tailored belt does duty at the waistline. The skirt molds the hips, but by virtue of its paneling has plenty of width where you want it, through the hemline.

All the cotton sheers are especially suitable for this model, and any wash fabric, either silk, cotton, or linen, should make up well. Daintily figured fabric is equally as smart as plain shades.

Style No. 2109 is designed for sizes 16, 18, and 20 years, and 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, and 48 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3⅞ yards of 39 inch material, with 2¼ yards of ruffling.

Good Morning!

Charming music, languorously sung and played by soft voiced, deft fingered Mexicans and Hawaiians, with Dorothy Lamour sweetly soloing now and then; a bullfight, presenting Martha Raye as toreadoress; a beatific romance between Dorothy as a native Mexican girl and handsome Ray Milland as an American scenario writer, and a cock-eyed triangular love affair between [or should I say "among"?] Miss Raye, Bob Burns, and a soulful eyed, honey toned, white fanged Mexican, are the outstanding features of "Tropic Holiday."

You discover Mr. Milland as Ken Warren, down in Mexico with his secretary [Martha Raye] to write a photoplay for a temperamental screen star [Binnie Barnes] with whom he believes he is in love.

It isn't long before Dorothy convinces him that in her the real thing has come along. . . .

Meanwhile Mr. Burns, candidate for senator from Oklahoma and Miss Raye's childhood sweetheart, arrives to take up the kindergarten love affair where it had left off on account of Martha's promotion. . . .

He finds her all fired with zeal to become a lady matador—the dusky skinned local Romeo having confessed a passion for "ladies who can do things like that." . . .

She at last pinch hits for a feminine arena star, Estrellita, and the picture's most amusing episode depicts her encounter with the rabid bull Furioso, which by mistake has been released instead of the gentle Pacifico she has expected to make merry with. . . .

You can pretty well guess what follows. Mr. Burns unexpectedly arrives on bull back and saves Martha from being picked up in pieces. . . . Is she grateful!

"What finally won my heart was the way you threw that bull," she tells Robin, whereat he replies modestly that he guesses he's just a senator at heart. . . .

Miss Barnes, arriving to cart off the boy friend, departs instead with the Mexican heartbreaker. So everybody's happy.

Nothing of the brain twister about "Tropical Holiday"—but who wants to do any mental gymnastics in summer, anyway?

See you tomorrow.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.]

A take-out double exerts a vast influence, not only on the bidding of the doubler and his partner, but over that of the other side as well. In today's hand South lost a laydown game because he did not appreciate that fact.

North, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

♥ A Q 7 5 3
♦ A 9 6 2
♣ 10 8

WEST
♠ 10 9 3
♥ 9 8 6 4 2
♣ Q J 7 3

EAST
♠ Q J 8
♥ K J 10
♦ J 10 7
♣ A K 5 2

SOUTH
♠ A K 7 5 2
♥ None
♦ K Q 8 5 4
♣ 9 6 4

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 heart	Double	1 spade	Pass
Pass	Pass

South let out a roar when North promptly passed to what South had fondly thought was a forcing one-over-one take-out. Actually North's pass was sound and proper, whereas South's one spade bid had been a decided error. The take-out double interpolated by East had created a problem which South had not even tried to solve. Without the double, South's one spade bid would have been an absolute force and, as such, strong enough for his holding. When the double came, however, South was in the anomalous position of holding a strong hand but one totally unsuited to a heart contract. South could not afford to pass because, for all he knew, West might do likewise and North, not dreaming that South was void of hearts, might well figure that one heart doubled was as good as any other contract. Nor would a redouble be fitting with South's 5-5-3 distribution.

This left only two actions for South: One, to take out to a spade, as he did, and the other, to make a jump take-out. To appreciate why South should not have bid one spade, let us imagine for a moment that South's holding was: ♠ K Q 7 5 2 ♥ None ♦ 6 5 4 2 ♣ 7 5 3 2. With this hand South would be equally unwilling to play a heart contract, especially doubled, yet could have no fond vision of game in spades. His correct action would be to bid one spade as a clearly recognizable rescue and an announcement to partner: "I can't stand one heart doubled and think that we will do better in one spade. I haven't enough to pass and enter the auction later, therefore am putting this bid in as cheaply as possible."

Since this is the message conveyed by a one spade bid over a take-out double, it follows that South must take more vigorous action when holding an infinitely better hand. In the actual holding as shown in the diagram, South should know that he will have a play for game if he can find either a spade or a diamond fit. Obviously, the diamond fit was there but it could never be discovered because of the inadequate bid that South selected.

The Culbertson convention to meet this situation is clearly defined in the Gold Book on page 191: "With strong hands, two or more honor tricks, redouble with distributed strength, and make a jump forcing take-out with a freak."

South's hand was not exactly a freak but, with two five card suits and a void in partner's suit, should have been handled as such. The bidding should have gone:

North	East	South	West
1 heart	Double	2 spades	Pass
2 no trump	Pass	3 diamonds	Pass
4 diamonds	Pass	5 diamonds	Pass
Pass	Pass

The jump take-out over a take-out double is a one round force. In this case North would not want to bid two no trump, but would make that bid as the cheapest available. Later, when the diamond suit came to light, he would raise because of his good fit.

Obviously, either four spades or five diamonds was a laydown, but a spade contract was not only dangerous, but difficult to reach.

Going on a picnic? If you are, then you'll be carrying along sandwiches or materials to go into sandwiches made on the picnic site. And if you're like most picnic food providers you'll be looking for sandwich making suggestions. Here are a few:

BEAN: Mash baked or canned beans and moisten with catsup or chili sauce. Spread between buttered slices of whole wheat bread.

CHEESE AND JELLY: Spread dark or light bread with butter, then with cream cheese and, on top of this, a bright jelly. The butter will prevent the jelly from soaking the bread.

HAM ON RYE: Lay slices of boiled ham on buttered rye bread and cover with a green pepper relish, piccalilli, or chili sauce.

EGG AND PICKLE: Season chopped, hard cooked eggs with salt and pepper. Mix with mayonnaise and chopped dill pickle. This mixture is best on whole wheat bread.

PEANUT BUTTER AND CHILI SAUCE: Spread buttered white bread with peanut butter and cover with chili sauce.

PEANUT AND CARROT: Grind raw carrots and peanuts together, mix with mayonnaise and spread between slices of white or whole wheat bread. Add a lettuce leaf to each sandwich.

MEAT AND VEGETABLE: Combine equal quantities of finely chopped cooked meat and finely chopped celery or ground carrot. Moisten with dressing. Add lettuce or not, as you please.

MEAT LOAF: Spread thin slices of meat loaf on whole wheat bread with mustard, horse radish, or catsup.

EGG AND BACON: Grind or mash hard cooked eggs, season, and moisten with salad dressing. Spread on white or whole wheat bread and put sandwich together with crisp strips or small pieces of bacon.

I needn't tell any hardened picnicker how good are fried sandwiches, the kind you prepare on the spot and brown in butter or in the fat from skillet cooked steaks or bacon. Sliced tomatoes are particularly good in this kind of sandwich. Add anything else you like, bacon or cheese or pickle or lettuce—all of these perhaps. Fruit and a beverage are the only additional necessities to make a meal.

Another kind of picnic sandwich prepared on the spot is the toasted variety. Sandwiches to be toasted may be carried already made up, or may be made up from materials brought along. Toasting may be done on the end of a stick, but more convenient and more effective are the long handled toasters or steak or frankfurter cookers.

There are dozens of other sandwich suggestions in our revised booklet, "The New Sandwich Makers." 5 cents in stamps by mail.

The Housewife

Some weeks ago we wrote about a little artificial pine tree to bring the freshness of the woods to your clothes closet. Today we'd like to tell you about a more lasting device that keeps the fragrance of cedar in your wardrobe for a long time and that can be used in a closet as large as 75 cubic feet.

It consists of a bottle of aromatic cedar liquid and a small container. The bottle is tipped upside down which permits just a tiny bit of the liquid to seep into the wooden container. This becomes impregnated with the cedar and delicately perfumes your closet. It's not expensive and it lasts a long, long time.

Keep Deadly Objects from Baby's Reach

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Everybody, I suppose—or nearly everybody—has heard of Dr. Chevalier Jackson, the doctor who invented the bronchoscope. The most recent public notice he received was when he took the nail from the lung of the 3 year old boy who traveled here from Australia to have the operation performed. So, when Dr. Jackson cautions mothers—in fact, when he's going to devote himself to a campaign of prevention of certain types or accidents—they'll be more apt to heed him than they would a mere mother or a mere writer of articles for parents!

Things that are dangerous should be put away where no young child can reach them. Young children are the most sudden, unpredictable little monkeys, imitative to the nth degree, quick as a flash, in sight one minute out of sight and reach the next.

Powder, poison, sharp knives and scissors, needles and pins, and guns are not for babies' or small children's hands. Does it sound absurd to say keep these things out of reach and some of them under lock and key? Yet countless accidents happen from all these objects being left where children can reach them or figure out a way to get at them.

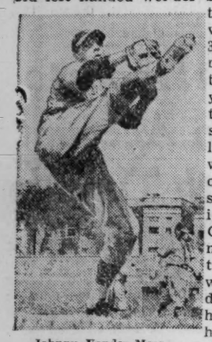
VANDER MEER BEATS CUBS, 3-1; SOX WIN, 5-4

YIELDS ONLY 4 HITS AS REDS SWEEP SERIES

30,793 See Youngster Defeat Lee.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Johnny Vander Meer, the 23 year old left handed wonder boy, showed the Cubs, as well as 30,793 curious spectators, yesterday that his sensational leap to fame was based on good, sound pitching. The Cubs spent nine innings trying to wear him down, but he breezed his way to the finish line on four hits, a performance which gave Cincinnati's Reds a sweep of the three game series. The score was 3 to 1.



Johnny Vander Meer.

Incidentally, the Cubs now are so far from first place that it is needless to measure the distance, but, if you're really interested, it's eight full games. Johnny, the Dutchman, didn't act as does the average kid left hander, except that he used his left arm. He refused to turn wild, although the Cubs gave him ample space to display this defect if he had it. He walked only two. A few other times he actually was in the hole to the hitters, but he made them swing for an extinguishing strike, or a smack to some waiting fielder. He disposed of six men by strikeouts, three of them in one inning.

He's Just Too Good.

The Cubs, in their efforts to keep the young man from scoring his eleventh victory of the season, moved only three men as far as third base. Frank Demaree reached there on a wild pitch after his hit in the second inning. Phil Cavarretta did it in the sixth on a hit of his own and Billy Herman arrived there in the sixth because of a break in the Reds' defense. Herman then scored the lone run on a play in which Umpire George Barr's judgment cost Gabby Hartnett a hit. The Cubs raised a rumpus about the decision, but merely wasted their breath.

The Reds did little damage with their bats, but they did it in bunches, thus simplifying run production. They turned loose three hits against Bill Lee before any one was out in the second. This netted two runs and there would have been a third if Jim Asbell hadn't reeled off a perfect throw to the plate. In the next inning they touched Lee for another run, this one being scored by Frank McCormick, who inaugurated the blast in the previous inning.

Bill Is O. K. at Start.

Lee looked powerful in the first inning, fanning two or three men who faced him, so what happened in the second was more or less of a shock. McCormick led off with a single to left. That Lombardi guy poked a looping two bagger into the right field corner and McCormick scored. Craft hoisted a fly toward right center and Demaree insisted on trying to make the catch, though Reynolds was near by. The ball sailed past Demaree for a triple, which was sufficient to get Slow Motion Lombardi across the plate. Riggs rolled to Cavarretta, Myers walked, and Craft was doubled at the plate on Vander Meer's fly to Asbell.

The little early fun the Cubs had with Vander Meer's pitching came in

Three Coaches Vote Sweeney, Frank to All-American Posts

First returns in the nation-wide player poll conducted by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and 150 associated newspapers to determine the personnel of the 1938 College All-Star squad brought ballots from three of the leading coaches of the country.

Chuck Sweeney.

Among the thousands of ballots cast yesterday in the first day's voting, tabulators found the selections of Coaches Bernie Bierman, University of Minnesota; Bernie Moore, Louisiana State university, and James Phelan, University of Washington. The three differed considerably on what they considered the best lineup to start against the Washington Redskins, world professional champions, on Soldiers' field on the night of Aug. 31. Only two players, Charles Sweeney, Notre Dame end, and Clint Frank, Yale's sensational back, were unanimous choices of the trio.

Bierman Coach in 1936.

Bierman, whose Minnesota elevens have been among the strongest in the country for the last few years, coached the 1936 All-Star team which played a 7 to 7 tie with the Detroit Lions. Moore and Phelan helped Coach Charles [Gus] Dorais of the University of Detroit, prepare the All-Stars for their 6 to 0 victory over the Green Bay Packers last year.

Bierman named players from nine schools and rated only one of his mighty Gophers, Lou Midler, worthy of a place in the starting lineup. He selected two linemen from Fordham and two from Nebraska. His team follows:

Ends—Charles Sweeney, Notre Dame; Elmer Dohrmann, Nebraska.
Tackles—Fred Shirey, Nebraska; Al Babartsky, Fordham.
Guards—Lou Midler, Minnesota; Ed Franco, Fordham.
Center—Mickey Parks, Oklahoma.
Quarter Back—John Michelosen, Pittsburgh.
Half Backs—Sam Chapman, California; Clint Frank, Yale.
Full Back—Corby Davis, Indiana.

Six of Moore's eleven candidates distinguished themselves on southern gridirons. Like Bierman, he named only one of his own players, placing Charles Rohm at half back to block for Frank. He agrees with the Minnesota coach in three positions, nominating Frank, Sweeney and Franco, but prefers to play Franco at tackle instead of guard. His team:

Ends—Andy Bershak, North Carolina; Charles Sweeney, Notre Dame.
Tackles—Frank Kinard, Mississippi; Ed Franco, Fordham.
Guards—Leroy Monsky, Alabama; Vard Stockton, California.
Center—Carl Hinkle, Vanderbilt.
Quarter Back—Byron [Whizzer] White, Colorado.
Half Backs—Clint Frank, Yale; Charles Rohm, Louisiana State.
Full Back—Hugh Wolfe, Texas.

Puts Markov at Tackle.

Phelan also found only one man among his own players whom he felt could meet the requirements of All-American competition. He placed his stellar lineman, Vic Markov, at tackle and teamed White and Frank in the backfield with two Big Ten stars, Cecil Isbell of Purdue, and Davis. Phelan's candidates follow:

Ends—Ray King, Minnesota; Charles Sweeney, Notre Dame.
Tackles—Vic Markov, Washington; Frank Kinard, Mississippi.
Guards—Leroy Monsky, Alabama; Joe Routt, Texas Aggies.
Center—Carl Hinkle, Vanderbilt.
Quarter Back—Clint Frank, Yale.
Half Backs—Byron White, Colorado; Cecil Isbell, Purdue.
Full Back—Corby Davis, Indiana.

Balloting in the players' poll will continue for two weeks. Players in each of the eleven positions receiving the largest number of votes will start the game against the Redskins, the fifth in the series originated by THE TRIBUNE in 1934. If injury during the three weeks practice period at Northwestern or some other circumstance prevents a player from taking his place in the starting lineup, the man with the next largest number of votes in that position will be moved up to face the Redskins at the kickoff.

First returns in the poll will be published on Wednesday.

GOMEZ VISITS THE MISSUS IN MOTHER'S HOME

Lexington, Mass., July 10.—(AP)—Vernon Gomez and two of his New York Yankee teammates were weekend guests of Lefty's actress wife, June O'Dea, in her mother's home—but today June countered all reconciliation talk with:

"Nothing to it. We are just good friends."

Although several weeks ago Lefty and June faced each other in court, the pair drove in the pitcher's car to Lexington from New York with June's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Schwartz, and her sister, Sonny Dale.

The car bore Nevada license plates—Lefty registered in that state while planning to file a divorce suit.

June brought a separation suit in New York when Gomez went to Nevada—but she withdrew the suit after her attorney said, a "substantial cash settlement" had been made.

HARRY COOPER'S 67 LEADS PRO GOLF TOURNEY

Chicagoan 5 Under Par; Moore Cards 68.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Shawnee-on-Delaware, Pa., July 10.—Harry Cooper, the clipper little Chicagoan who can hit a golf ball like all get out, wasn't feeling so chipper this afternoon, so the best he could do in the first eighteen holes of the thirty-six hole qualifying round of the twenty-first National Professional Golf tournament was a 67, five under par for the Shawnee Country club course.

Proof of Cooper's condition is revealed in the fact that he could make only a 31 on the par 35 back nine, the section of the course over which he had fired a 29 while winning the Shawnee open last year. It sufficed, however, to give the Chicagoan a one stroke edge on the field of 108 starters entering tomorrow's final eighteen holes. Cooper's round, one of the best in the history of the pros' own show, was made despite an attack of hay fever and the sweltering heat native to Shawnee in July.

Frank Moore Cards 68.

One shot behind Harry after today's portion of the party was 29 year old Frank Moore of Mamaroneck, N. Y., with a 68. Frank is the young native of Birmingham, Ala., who has been trying to prove for the last couple of years that he is more than just a brother of Terry Moore of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Tied at 69 were two of Moore's playing partners and Henry Picard of Hersey, Pa. The pair in the Moore threesome were Samuel Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., leading money winner of the year, and Terl Johnson, the former Decatur, Ill., pro who now is stationed in Norristown, Pa.

Eighteen in the field broke par, while six others equalled it. Among the 70 shooters was Ralph Guldahl of Madison, N. J., the miracle man of medal play who has won the national open these last two years and the western open for three straight seasons. His effort was matched by Dick Metz of Chicago, runner-up to Guldahl in the national open in Denver; Paul Runyan of White Plains, N. Y., 1934 winner of the P. G. A., and Melvin Stahl of Lansing, Mich.

Denny Wants a Trophy.

The 71 block included Jimmy Thomson of the home club; Frank Walsh of Chicago and Breton Woods, N. H.; Sam Parks, 1935 national open champion, and Jimmy Foulis of Chicago, who led the Illinois section qualifiers for the tournament.

Striding through the heat at its height was the familiar figure of Denny Shute, the quiet young man from Boston who has won this most wearing of all match play competitions for the last two years. Shute is exempt from the qualifying round by reason of being the defending title holder, but elected to play in it anyway in an effort to win the Alex Smith Memorial trophy which goes to the low scorer in the 36 hole medal play part of the tournament. Denny finished with a 74 today.

Shute and the sixty-three low scorers in the thirty-six holes of medal play will qualify for the match play bracket, which will begin Tuesday with two eighteen hole rounds. This will reduce the field to sixteen players, who will wrestle through Saturday's championship match in daily thirty-six hole battles.

Chicagoans in Running.

Cooper led not only the entire field through the first eighteen, but the entire Illinois delegation as well. He was followed by Metz's 70 and the 71's of Walsh and Foulis. Other Illinois scorers were Ky Laffoon of Northmoor, 37—36—73; Herb Johnson of Butterfield, 38—36—74; John Revolta of Evanston, 37—37—74; Horton Smith of Oak Park, 41—34—75; Jim Noonan of Burnham Woods, 38—37—75; George Smith of Onwentsia, 37—38—75, and Jock Hutchison Jr. of

Irish Boxers Find They're Not So Far from Home

The ten best amateur fighters in Ireland who meet Chicago's C. Y. O. boxers Wednesday night in Soldiers' field, yesterday were officially welcomed to Chicago by cheering thousands in Garfield park. Bishop Bernard J. Sheil (right) introduces boxers at meeting sponsored by Irish societies of Chicago. Mayor Kelly (left), who spoke, looks on. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Irish Boxers Welcomed in Garfield Park

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Thousands of Chicago's Irish, gathered yesterday in Garfield park to hear Congressman Clare Gerald Fenerty of Philadelphia, principal speaker at the meeting planned by the Allied Irish Societies of Chicago, gave Ireland's amateur boxing champions a tremendous cheer when they were introduced to the throng by Bishop Bernard J. Sheil, founder and director of the Catholic Youth Organization.

The ten Irish boxers will meet the C. Y. O. team Wednesday evening in Soldiers' field in the second international boxing show and the fourth summer meet which annually supports the C. Y. O. milk fund. In addition to the ten international bouts there will be four preliminary matches arranged from the group of C. Y. O. boys now training at the Lewis Holy Name Technical school, Lockport, Ill., who are not named on the C. Y. O. international squad.

Wishes Irish Boxers Success.

Congressman Fenerty's subject was "Ireland, One and Undivided," but he digressed from his speech to complement the welcoming addresses to the Irish boxers by Mayor Kelly, Daniel J. McGrath, Irish consul in Chicago, and Arch Ward, sports editor of THE TRIBUNE, and to wish the Irish champions success in their bouts Wednesday evening.

These remarks of welcome were echoed again and again by the throng which broke the police lines on the south side of the Garfield park band stand and massed solidly before the speakers' rostrum. The presentation of these Irish boxing champions was the high point in an afternoon devoted to Irish history and hopes.

The Irish boxers arrived at the reception at 4 o'clock yesterday. Long before that thousands had begun to assemble at the band stand and there were entertained by the Catholic Youth organization band. Hundreds of others lined the sidewalks of Madison street, along which the parade of Irish societies, drum corps, and uniformed groups moved to the park shortly before 3 o'clock.

Shannon Rovers' Band Plays.

Among the organizations in the parade were the Shannon Rovers' band, the Ancient Order of Hibernians, All-Ireland club, Irish Society of Drama and Music, which also furnished a chorus of 250 singers for the program; the Sarsfield club,, American Association for Recognition of the Irish Republic, Holy Rosary Sea Scouts, Irish Mummers' club, St. Philip's High school band, North of Ireland club, Irish Historical Productions, Irish-American Athletic club, and the Irish-American News.

Yesterday's welcome to the Irish boxers was concluded last night when

LYONS SURVIVES HOMERS BY YORK AND GREENBERG

Appling's Hits Help Whip Tigers.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., July 10.—Ted Lyons weathered the power of Rudy York's and Hank Greenberg's home run bats today. Rudy socked his No. 22 in the sixth inning and Hank his No. 26 with one on in the eighth, but both to no avail. Ted and the White Sox wound up in front, 5 to 4.

The Sox were in a hitting mood themselves. They made a total of thirteen hits off Lefty Harry Eisenstat and three off his successor, George Coffman. One of these was Joe Kuhel's second home run of the season, and another a triple by Mike Kreevich which drove in a run. The fifth Sox run was driven in by young Norm Schlueter with two out in the eighth.

Appling in First Start.

Luke Appling made his first appearance of the year in a starting lineup, but retired in the eighth after making two singles his first two times at bat.

Gerald Walker, a Sox bench rider since June 21 except for a pinch batting assignment here yesterday, was displayed in the cleanup spot for the benefit of the 18,000 Detroit Gee fans present, and because Manager Jimmy Dykes wanted to employ a right handed hitter against the left handed Eisenstat. Gee didn't have as pleasant a day as he wished. He ended the first, third, fourth, and seventh innings with easy outs, in the first instance with one on, then with runners on third and first, a runner on third, and runners on second and first.

Luke Starts Scoring.

It was Appling's pleasure to start the day's scoring. Luke led off the second inning with a single and went to third on Owen's single to right. The restored shortstop scored while Kuhel and Owen were sinking in a double play.

The Tigers tied the count in their half. Greenberg led off with a single to left. Hank went to second on an infield out, stole third and scored on Rogell's fly to Kreevich.

The Sox resumed the lead on Kuhel's homer in the fourth. Appling led off with his second hit of the game and his third in a row, counting the one he made in the eleventh inning Friday. Owen missed on a hit and run and Appling was speared going into second. Kuhel then drove his second home run of the season into the right field stands.

With one out in the fifth Hayes made the second of his series of hits, but was forced by Steinbacher. Steinbacher then scored on Kreevich's triple to left center.

York Smacks One.

York hit his twenty-second homer with one out in the sixth to make the score 3 to 2 in favor of the Sox. Rudy's effort was a line smash to the upper deck of the left field stand.

The Sox fattened their lead in the seventh. Schleuter opened with a single to center, advanced on Lyon's sacrifice and scored on Hayes' third hit, a single to left. Against Coffman in the eighth the Sox rang up their fifth and the winning score. Owen made his third single with one out, but was forced by Kuhel. Kuhel stole second and scored on Schlueter's second hit, a single to center.

Greenberg's bat stirred up a scare in the home eighth. Gehringer dropped a single in front of Steinbacher. York popped to Berger, who had just replaced Appling. Gehringer reached second on a wild pitch, then Greenberg rammed that No. 26 homer into the upper deck of the left field stand, scoring behind Gehringer.

TRIBUNE SWIM ENTRY DEADLINE ONLY WEEK AWAY

Contestants to Receive Acceptance Postcards.

For one more week, until midnight July 18, entries will be accepted for the ninth annual Chicagoland 100 yard free style swimming races. Next week acceptance postcards will be mailed to all those who register for the four qualifying meets.

These postcards not only furnish each contestant with his racing number but they will admit them to the pools without charge. Each of the four meets will start at 1 o'clock when the swimmers will be assigned to their heats. The first preliminary race at each sectional meet will start at 2 o'clock.

No Fee for Registration.

Since no entry will be accepted after July 18 and swimmers cannot compete unless they present acceptance cards, registration is all important. There is no fee for registration and the promotional agency also will pay the membership fee for all swimmers 16 years of age and over with the Central association of the A. A. U.

The four sectional meets will be held on July 23 and 24. They will qualify at least 160 swimmers for the championships which will be held July 31 at Diversey beach lagoon. You may enter any sectional regardless of where you live. If you are an amateur swimmer and submit your name, age, and home address before July 18 you are eligible to compete for the qualifying prizes, and then, if successful in these preliminaries, to compete for the gold, silver, and bronze championship awards.

Sectional Swim Meets.

The sectional swim meets will be held as follows:

July 23—Cermak pool, 7600 Ogden avenue, Lyons, Ill., and Sherman park pool, 52d street and Racine avenue.

July 24—Whealan pool, Milwaukee and Devon avenue, and California park pool, 3901 North California avenue.

There are five age classes for boys and five for girls, thus insuring fair competition. Class A includes those 11 and 12 years of age. The following classes, B, C, and D, include two years each with class E for those 19 years of age and over.

The number to qualify for the championships from each section and in each class will be determined by the number of entries. Customarily the entries at Whealan pool, because of the location, the facilities, and because preliminaries always have been held on Sunday have been largest. It is fair then to qualify more swimmers from Whealan pool than from the others. There is no fixed rule for the maximum number to compete in the finals except that no swimmer will be required to race more than twice on July 31.

200 May Qualify.

If the officials desire the number of qualifiers can be increased to 200. The minimum will be 160. Nor is there any restriction on residence. In other years Indiana, Iowa, Wisconsin, Illinois, and Michigan have been represented with an occasional entrant from a more distant state. For several years one of the leading teams in competition for the silver championship team trophies—one for boys and the other for girls—has been the Peoria, Ill., Country club.

Any club or organization may compete and may divide its entry list between all sections, if it wishes. The home address of each swimmer, as well as age, must be furnished the clerks in charge of registration.

Nye Wins 3d Straight Star Class Event

Harry Nye Jr. of the Chicago Yacht club sailed his Star class racer Gale yesterday to its third straight victory in the Southern Lake Michigan Star class fleet's international elimination series. Gale ran a perfect score, 36 points, by winning yesterday's two races off Belmont harbor, in addition to the race it captured Saturday.

The morning race was sailed in light airs and Gale required 2 hours 38 minutes 37 seconds to complete the course. Russell Moon, piloting Temple Smith's entry, Delight, was runner-up, with Mrs. Rosalie Karas' Alcor, sailed by Bert Williams, third. The final race in the afternoon was sailed in a stronger wind, which dismasted Alcor. Gale won in 1:31:44, followed by Leeds Mitchell Jr.'s Shimmer, and Delight.

Delight Is Second.

Delight was second in the eliminations, with 30 points, and Shimmer third with 28. They and Gale will represent the fleet at the Great Lakes Star class championship series next month off Wilmette.

Dolphin, sailed by Owner Emerson Raymond and Charles Knight, won the Sheridan Shore Yacht club's second race of a series of eliminations off Wilmette. Winning time was 2:05:47 for the eleven mile race. Little Audrey, sailed by Ted Mead, was runner-up, followed by S. C. Pirie Jr. in his Gemini. Gemini was leading the series on points, with 37 to 34 for both Dolphin and the Otter brothers' Asterisk.

The Wilmette Snipe class fleet held two races. The morning event was won by Topper, Robert Liess' entry, in 1:24:30, with Ric-Lor, Fleet Captain K. Eastman's flagship, second, and Hi Foot of the Schlagel-Anderson syndicate third. Ric-Lor won the afternoon race in 55:32, with Moby Dick, sailed by Percy Wilson and Mrs. Wilson, second, and E. Marsh's Hussy third.

Yankee Comes In First.

Yankee, Ed Schnabel's R class sloop, was first to finish in the opening of the Chicago Yacht club's annual Commodore's Cup series. Its elapsed time was 2:23:19, followed in order by Gossoon II., Olive, Nancy, Alert IV., Ardelle, the S class sloops Aquila, Quienna, Falcon, Orn, and the Tumlaren sloops Agenda, Ruffa, and Hexa.

Gossoon II., Sterling Morton and Malcolm Vail's R boat, won the club's regular series race in the afternoon in 2:01:17. It was followed in 23 seconds by Alert IV., Dr. T. J. Morris' entry.

Reflections of a Sportsman at Trout Pool

BY BOB BECKER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Forest County, Wis., July 10.—These notes were jotted down while sitting near a cold, spring fed trout pool in the woods. We had to wait about 30 minutes for the long shadows to steal across this pool before we started to fly cast for trout. Here are some of the things we saw and did during that thirty minutes:

You wouldn't think there was a trout in the pool right now, as the fish haven't come to the top at all. And it looks so shallow. But we know it has depth because we were in it last night . . . and, boy, is it cold! . . . The kingbird that considers this spring pool his private hunting grounds is going to be amusing. . . . There he goes after a waxwing, and what a rush he gives that bird to drive him away!

Mosquitoes on the Wing.

The mosquitoes certainly are humming around our head. . . . This evening will be a real test of the new mosquito dope all of us are using. . . . It looks like a woman's face cream and smells like it, too. But it sure is keeping the insects from biting us. . . . There's a beautiful rise about thirty-five feet out in the pool. . . . The shadows are creeping over the water. . . . It won't be long until we toss a dry fly to see if these brook trout will take it. . . . Ovitz says he isn't going to fish this evening. . . . O, well, he nicked eleven of 'em last night. . . . Davis is going around to the other side of the pool to try a spot near the outlet.

Not quite time to fish, although the shadows are longer. . . . The kingbird is flying over the spring pond with an insect in his bill. . . . Gosh, it's quiet and cool now here in the woods. . . . Worth coming out here just to hear the evening song of the thrushes. . . .

Fishing Time Finally Comes.

Hope that old mother partridge rounded up her little ones. . . . We met her on the trail when we walked in and got within eight feet of her before she'd move . . . we almost stepped on her little ones. . . . It was a thrill to see the young ones take to wing.

The shadows are almost across the pool now. . . . Time to start fishing.

Favorites Are in Dog House at Arlington

BY FRENCH LANE.

Favorites are in bad repute at the end of the first two weeks of the Arlington Park Jocky club race meeting.

Everybody in town except the long shot players are mad at them. They have not behaved as they should on any day since the meeting opened. Only 26 per cent of them had caught the nod of the judges. Race track statisticians call that "way below normal."

The situation is considered normal when 35 per cent of the favorites win. It is nothing to be disturbed about when 33 per cent of them win, the charts and statistics reveal, but from then on down it is different.

They May Change.

Naturally favorite players are horrified. They are firmly convinced the fellow who plays figures rather than the color of the jocky's hair or the twinkle in the steed's eye can't keep his head above water unless more than 26 per cent of the public choices come in.

Perhaps the favorites are going to do an about face at Arlington this year and deliver during the last half of the season. They did something of the sort last year.

At the end of the first two weeks of last year's meeting, 40 per cent of the favorites had galloped home in front. Then the hot weather or something got 'em and the percentage of winning favorites for the entire meeting was only thirty-two.

Track conditions that have changed frequently and the coming together at Arlington this year of horses from every racing center in the country and Canada is blamed

Cubs Entertain Pirates Today; French to Pitch

The Pirates step into the Cubs' home acres today for the first of a two game series. Larry French will try to change his luck in the opener and will draw Bill Swift as his opponent.

Manager Charley Grimm and P. K. Wrigley, Cub owner, will confer today on the Dizzy Dean subject. Three courses are open. Diz can be retired for the season to give his dead arm a chance to recover; he can be kept around to continue his vacation, or he can be told to get ready for a pitching effort, the doctor's rest orders notwithstanding.

"Dean pitching tomorrow" was the announcement in the Cub dugout before yesterday's game. But it wasn't official because Dean himself made the remark. Just before this Dean had thrown a few baseballs and decided he felt pretty good.

Vander Meer and Reds Run Over Cubs, 3-1

the first couple of innings. Hack opened with a pass, but the net efforts of the next three batters got him only as far as second. Demaree blew open the second inning with a two bagger to right center and after Asbell had been called out on strikes Frank reached third on a wild pitch. Vander Meer worked on the strike idea until he also fanned Cavarretta and Jurges.

Reds Get Another.

The Reds moved a little farther into the lead in the third when two hits grew into a run. Berger scraped a single off Lee's glove after Frey had opened with a fly to Demaree. Hack stepped into foul territory to take a puny pop off Goodman's bat. McCormick rifled a two bagger into right center and Berger scored. Jurges threw out Lombardi to close the inning.

Lee was invincible in his four remaining innings of work, although the Reds opened both the fifth and sixth with singles.

Cubs Score a Run.

The sixth, in which the Cubs finally found their way to the plate, began to develop possibilities when Herman walked with one out. Frey fumbled Reynolds' grounder and the ball rolled far enough into right field to give Herman time to reach third. Umpire Barr then stepped into the situation with what appeared to be a bad guess. Riggs went back of third to knock down a healthy drive by Hartnett. Riggs recovered the ball, threw to first and Barr ruled Hartnett was out, although Gabby seemed to have arrived ahead of the ball. Barr didn't notice that Herman had scored on the play or he might have called him out also on interference or something. Demaree flied to Berger for the third out.

South Siders Win, 4-2; Take Police Title

Good pitching by Southpaw Eddie Dennis [First district] gave the South Side a 4 to 2 victory and the city championship in the third and final game of the annual police baseball tournament in Comiskey park yesterday. Twenty thousand saw the game.

The North Siders, managed by Capt. Harry O'Connell [30th district], and victors in 1937, won the opener, but the South Siders, led by Capt. Eugene Barry [5th district], took the second game.

Mike Delaney, veteran right-hander [accident prevention bureau], who won for the North Side in the opener, lasted only six and one-third innings yesterday, giving up ten hits and four runs. Joe Hurley [34th district], finished. Dennis yielded only seven hits.

The games added $100,000 to the Police Benevolent association fund, which provides for dependents of officers killed in the line of du

URGE PREVENTION METHODS TO AID WAR ON SYPHILIS

Value of Prophylaxis in Army Pointed Out.

Education of the public in methods to prevent infection is necessary if the city's campaign against syphilis and gonorrhea is to be fully successful, said Dr. Louis E. Schmidt, chairman of the mayor's anti-syphilis committee, yesterday.

"There is no question that our program of tracing these diseases from one person to another and offering each one a chance of cure is of immense public health value," said Dr. Schmidt. "But such a complex, time-consuming organization is required that venereal disease spreads faster than our clinics and physicians can cure it.

Epidemics Stopped at Source.

"Smallpox was not stamped out until whole communities were vaccinated, which prevented them from getting the disease. The diphtheria rate fell off materially only when children were given a toxoid which enabled them to resist the germ.

"Typhoid fever remained uncontroled until proper treatment of water and milk prevented the germs from reaching the public. Likewise, yellow fever was stopped by eliminating the mosquito which carried the infection."

Dr. Schmidt said that there is no vaccine or toxoid to prevent syphilis. "There are, however," he said, "methods of prophylaxis—mechanical and chemical means which, when secured from reliable sources and properly applied before or after intercourse, prevent both gonorrhea and syphilis.

Education Next Objective.

"Education of the public to the value of these preventives should be the next objective of public health authorities in syphilis control. Medical prophylaxis at present is designed Decline of venereal disease in United States army since adoption of compulsory prophylaxis. Wider use of this means of prevention is being urged in Chicago war on syphilis and gonorrhea.

essentially to protect the man, who is the one who applies it. But there is now definite hope of developing a simple preventive used by the woman for the protection of both man and woman.

"We have been able to overcome the ignorance and prejudice obstructing a public attack on syphilis, but we have still to conquer social resistance to prophylaxis, the most practical means of prevention."

Service Benefits Cited.

Dr. Schmidt pointed to medical records of the United States army and navy in reducing venereal disease rates as examples of what can be done.

In 1912, when prophylaxis for soldiers returning to camp after exposure was first made compulsory, the army's venereal disease rate was more than 15 per 100, records show. Surgeon General C. R. Reynolds reported that in 1937 the venereal disease rate had been reduced to 2.8 per 100 among soldiers stationed in this country.

"We have obtained good results," said Gen. Reynolds, "but know that much more can be done as the civil population becomes alive to the question."

Lectures Given to Men.

The navy's experience with the benefits of compulsory prophylaxis has been similar, although it is forced to rely on self-application of medication to a greater extent than the army, which has prophylaxis stations. Lectures on methods to prevent infection by syphilis and gonorrhea are given regularly by both the army and navy.

Many public health leaders have endorsed self-applied prophylaxis, the only method deemed practicable in civilian life. None, however, has attempted a program of public education on the need of preventive treatment against sexual exposure, which is the source of more than 95 per cent of venereal disease infections.

BALLOONIST GOES UP AND STARTLES THREE AVIATORS

The ancient sport of balloon ascension, which disappeared from the Chicago area twenty years ago, was revived yesterday at 95th street and Keane avenue.

While some 500 spectators watched, many of them assisting, a great cloth balloon, 40 feet in diameter, was inflated. Fully 100 men and youths were summoned as volunteers to hold it down in the strong wind.

Finally, however, all was ready. Pat Kennedy of Tulsa, Okla., a litttle man in cowboy boots, wash trousers and a black velvet bolero, who has made 182 parachute jumps, got astride a steel bar at the tip of the parachute. Then, as he unfurled an American flag, the balloon was freed.

Belching black smoke into the sunset sky, it soared an estimated 2,500 feet in three minutes before Jumper Kennedy jumped. Motorists honked their horns in applause as he floated down into a cornfield, three surprised aviators slowed their planes in flight, and V. E. Thompson, owner of the balloon, sighed. "It would have gone up a mile," he said sadly, "but the natives here seemed to be afraid to hold it."

A. SAPERSTEIN, 42, THEATER OWNER, DIES AFTER TRIP

Aaron Saperstein, owner of several Chicago theaters and president of the Allied Theaters of Illinois, died of a heart attack yesterday in his home at 3608 Pine Grove avenue. Mr. Saperstein, who was 42 years old, was taken ill on his return Saturday night from a trip to New York. He leaves his widow, Beatrice, and two sons, Henry and Seymour. Funeral services will be at 11 a. m. tomorrow in the chapel at 1300 Devon avenue. Mr. Saperstein was a member of Mecca lodge, No. 1080, A. F. and A. M.,; Lake View lodge, B'nai B'rith; the Congregation Anshe Emet, and the Covenant club.

CHOKES ON TOBACCO, DIES.

Houston, Ill., July 10.—(AP)—Floyd R. Wilson, 27 years old, a member of a threshing crew, collapsed and died a short time after taking a chew of tobacco. A coroner's jury returned a verdict of death due to unknown causes, but witnesses testified Wilson apparently choked on the tobacco.

MIXUP IN PRICES STILL DELAYING BUYING OF STEEL

Rapid Improvement Is Predicted.

Confusion over the new pricing systems still is delaying a large amount of steel buying, the magazine Steel said yesterday in its weekly review. Some improvement since the price cuts were put into effect was noted, however, and the trade journal indicated there is a prospect of rapid improvement when the pricing difficulties have been smoothed out.

The Fourth of July holiday reduced ingot production last week to an estimated 24 per cent of theoretical capacity, Steel said. The sharpest reduction in operations was at Pittsburgh, where production fell 8 points to 15 per cent of capacity. Chicago operations were 3 points lower at 24 per cent, and several other districts operated at slightly lower schedules.

Wheeling Rate 44 Per Cent.

Production was stepped up 6 points in the Wheeling area to 44 per cent of capacity. Other increases were 2 points at Buffalo, to 30 per cent; 10 points in New England, to 33 per cent, and 8 points at Cincinnati, to 36 per cent of capacity.

Commenting on the results of the price reductions for finished steel, Steel said:

"Action of independent steel producers in setting up additional basing points at price parity with Pittsburgh, following the step by United States Steel corporation subsidiaries in eliminating Chicago and Birmingham differentials over Pittsburgh, has complicated the situation for both buyers and sellers."

"The new setup, tending to localize the business of mills, has a similar effect on steel consumers," it continued, "and in some cases has resulted in protests from the latter. As an example, eastern makers of automotive parts now find increased competition in midwestern markets, and at least one company has taken steps to enter other lines.

Means Savings for Some.

"At the same time certain consumers located near new basing points receive marked savings in steel costs through the revamped schedule and have strengthened their position with respect to competitors less favored by lower prices. Reports in the east that various inequalities in the new system might be rectified within the next few weeks have induced steel users in that area to delay quoting customers on manufactured products in some instances."

"Reductions in steel prices are in contrast to scrap quotations, which continue upward," Steel added. "The steelmaking scrap composite advanced 34 cents last week to $12.50, the third consecutive increase, bringing quotations back to the mid-April level. The iron and steel composite also was lifted by higher scrap prices, moving up 4 cents to $36.29. The finished steel composite was unchanged at $57.20."

World Wheat Supply Will Be Abundant

The world wheat outlook changed little in the first half of July, according to reports from official and private sources. These continue to indicate there will be an abundance of wheat available for consumption during the 1938-'39 crop season, which started July 1.

Latest figures on world production of wheat during the current crop year, exclusive of Russia and China, show about 4,700,000,000 bushels in sight at the present time, allowing for average harvests in Argentina and Australia.

Any losses in the American winter wheat belt due to adverse weather and other influences in June, it is estimated, have been offset by improvement in the outlook for the European crop.

Average Is 4,700,000,000.

World supplies of cash wheat available for consumption during the last ten years have averaged about 4,700,000,000 bushels. The amount of wheat which will be available for world consumption during the 1938-'39 season, as indicated by the department of agriculture, is about 300,000,000 bushels in excess of the 4,421,000,000 bushels estimated for 1937-'38. Actual consumption during the latter period was placed at 3,770,000,000 bushels.

Europe has reëntered the American corn market as a buyer of cash grain. It is estimated that total export business in the first eight and a half months of the crop year, which started Nov. 1, 1937, have aggregated 120,000,000 bushels. Only six times in history has such an amount been exceeded.

New Crop Nears Critical Period.

Despite the large export business in corn the market has been little affected recently, as production in the United States in 1937, especially in Illinois and Iowa, was unusually large.

The critical period of growth of the new corn crop will come late in July and early in August.

Harvesting of the oats, rye, and barley crops is now under way over a large area, although field work is reported to be making rather slow progress in various sections where high winds blew down the grain.

200 Millions of RFC Notes Go on Market

Acting through the federal reserve banks, the treasury yesterday offered at par and accrued interest 200 million dollars of Reconstruction Finance corporation ⅞ per cent notes, series N.

The offering is the first step in a program by which the RFC is preparing to cut loose from the federal budget and do its own financing instead of borrowing from the treasury.

Not Subject to Call.

The notes will mature July 20, 1941, and will not be subject to call for redemption prior to maturity. They will be issued only in bearer form with coupons attached, in denominations of $1,000, $5,000, $10,000, and $100,000.

The notes will be fully and unconditionally guaranteed both as to interest and principal by the United States.

Ickes Calls Halt to U. S. Phosphate Land Leasing

Washington, D. C., July 10.—(AP)—Secretary Ickes decreed tonight that no more leases to mine the fertilizer material, phosphate, from government lands would be granted until congress had agreed upon a phosphate conservation policy. He said the order involved primarily 2,000,000 acres in Florida, Idaho, Montana, Utah, and Wyoming. Existing leases will not be affected.

Royal Crown Hosiery Co. to Move to New Quarters

The Royal Crown Hosiery company will move into larger quarters at 126 North Wells street July 18. The firm, which does a wholesale business, is now located at 229 West Washington street.

U. S. to Go Easy on Crop Price Pegging; Fears for Exports

Washington, D. C., July 10.—(AP)—Administration farm leaders said today that if present prices of cotton and wheat were maintained for the season, government price bolstering efforts would be held to a minimum to encourage exports of these commodities.

In recent years the government often has stepped in to halt farm price declines by providing loans to producers desiring to withhold price depressing surpluses from markets. The loan rate usually set the market price.

Officials said that in some instances the loans had held American prices above world levels and thereby had retarded exports, foreign buyers turning to agricultural nations offering lower prices.

Confronted with huge surpluses of cotton and wheat, agriculture department officials have expressed a desire to avoid loans that would tend to set artificial prices.

They disclosed that if the price of cotton—the nation's No. 1 farm export—is at the present level Aug. 1, it is possible that government loans will not be provided.

Cotton loans are mandatory under the new farm law when the Aug. 1 price of cotton is 52 per cent or less than what congress has declared to be a "fair" price—now about 16 cents.

Although loans probably will be provided for wheat, the loan rate is expected to be close to the minimum permitted under the farm act. Such a rate—about 60 cents a bushel—would be below current wheat prices.

However, a rather sharp decline in wheat prices might create a situation, officials explained, in which American prices would be pegged above world prices.

DUTCH FREIGHTER LEAVES CHICAGO FOR HOME TODAY

The Dutch freighter Prins Willem Van Oranje, which arrived in Chicago Saturday on its maiden voyage across the Atlantic, will leave today for Rotterdam with 2,100 tons of soy bean meal. The freighter dropped off a load of anthracite at Toronto, Ont., on its way here.

The boat, 258 feet long, with a beam of 42 feet, is specially designed for Great Lakes and ocean ports. Smaller than many ocean craft, the boat is about the largest that can go through the Welland canal.

Capt. Dirk Dekker said a sister ship is due here later in the month. The boat is being loaded at the Seng Waterway Warehouse dock, 310 Polk street.

TAX EXEMPTION ASKED IN MEXICO BY SO. PAC. UNIT

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

MEXICO CITY, July 10.—[Special.]—The Southern Pacific Railroad Company of Mexico, a subsidiary of the Southern Pacific of the United States, has petitioned the First Federal District court for the same tax exemptions granted to the National Railroads of Mexico, it was learned today. The National roads recently were expropriated by the government and turned over to labor union management.

The petition, filed by E. B. Sloan, Mexican Southern Pacific representative, is regarded here as a desperate move. The refusal of the Mexican government to grant rate increases has made it difficult for the road to meet its pay rolls.

AIRCRAFT FIRM EARNS MILLION IN SIX MONTHS

Douglas' Net Twice That of Year Ago.

The Douglas Aircraft company and its wholly owned subsidiary, the Northrop corporation, yesterday reported net earnings of $1,093,149 for the six months ended May 31. This is equivalent to $1.91 a share on 570,683 shares outstanding, and compares with $525,822, or 92 cents a share, in the same period last year.

It includes 316 planes for the United States Army Air corps, seventeen for the Navy Air corps, and export contracts for twelve commercial transports.

Another company reporting yesterday was the General Finance corporation. Owen L. Coon, chairman of the board, announced that earnings for the first six months of the fiscal year ended May 31 were $136,278 against $347,094 in the corresponding 1937 period.

Earnings in the six months were equivalent to 12½ cents per share on 865,075 shares of common stock outstanding, compared with 40 cents a share on 817,300 shares in the first six months of the preceding fiscal year.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Frank Ridgway

Start War on Weeds.

July 10, 1938.

AN INTENSIVE war on this year's big crop of weeds was started on THE TRIBUNE'S farms last week. This is the second year the farms have taken part in the state-wide weed control campaign.

Again managers of the farms have pledged their full support to the control campaign sponsored by the state weed committee, headed by J. H. Lloyd, director of the state department of agriculture at Springfield. Effort will be made to rout weeds from the farms, which total more than 2,300 acres.

Workers have started on their annual search to destroy every Canadian thistle, perennial sow thistle, and European bindweed. These three are classified as noxious weeds under the Illinois law. It is unlawful to allow these weeds to grow anywhere in the state, in the city as well as on the farm.

Cut Out Snake Root.

In the cleanup work men at the farms are cutting white snake root weeds and poison ivy vines. For several years white snake root has caused trouble on the Du Page county farm. Each year the pastures are carefully "combed" and every white snake root plant is pulled, piled, and burned. This plan will be repeated again this year before the sheep are turned into the woodland pastures.

Canada thistles are among the most troublesome weeds at the Fox river farm. For the last ten days two men have been kept busy with hoes and scythes getting rid of the Canada thistles patches.

Wherever it is possible, the farm managers try to cut the weeds before seeds are formed. To do this, the weed cutting campaign is kept going from early summer until frost. Weeds are kept under control in the fields where cultivated crops are raised by preparing good seed beds, harrowing, and finally by thorough cultivation. In some cases it is necessary to clean up patches here and there with hand hoes.

Cut Along Fence Rows.

Then about the latter part of June the weeds are cut with scythes along fence rows and the edges of cattle lanes, around the borders of fields and in odd corners that cannot be cut with a mower drawn by horses or tractor. In small grain fields the weeds are given a temporary setback when the crop is cut with a binder or combine.

During July the practice in recent years has been to harvest for hay some of the tall grass in the permanent pastures. At that time it is also convenient to mow down patches of ragweed and other undesirable weeds in the pastures.

In this part of the country it is common for ragweed to spring up in the stubble shortly after wheat, oats, rye, and barley have been cut. Managers of both farms have found it worthwhile to mow the stubble fields the latter part of July and the first part of August. The time of mowing varies, but the men watch the weeds and mow them before seed begins to form. It is from these small grain stubble fields that thousands of tons of ragweed pollen are produced each year. Pollen from ragweed is the principal cause of hayfever, which is common from the first part of August until frost.

Road supervisors who are responsible for cutting the weeds along the sides of the road that run through The Tribune farms are doing a thorough job. Cutting weeds along the roads not only prevents them from spreading and reinfesting nearby fields but removes a serious trafic hazard. Accidents often occur around curves and corners of roads infested with weeds that are allowed to grow and obstruct the vision of drivers of automobiles and trucks.

How Chicago Fights Flames—A Preview of Police and Fire Thrill Show at Soldiers' Field Next Sunday

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

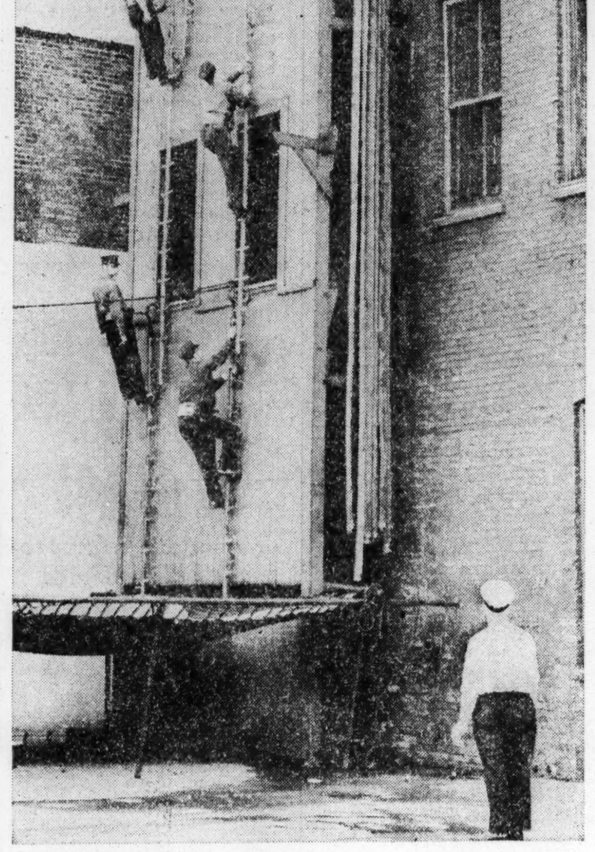
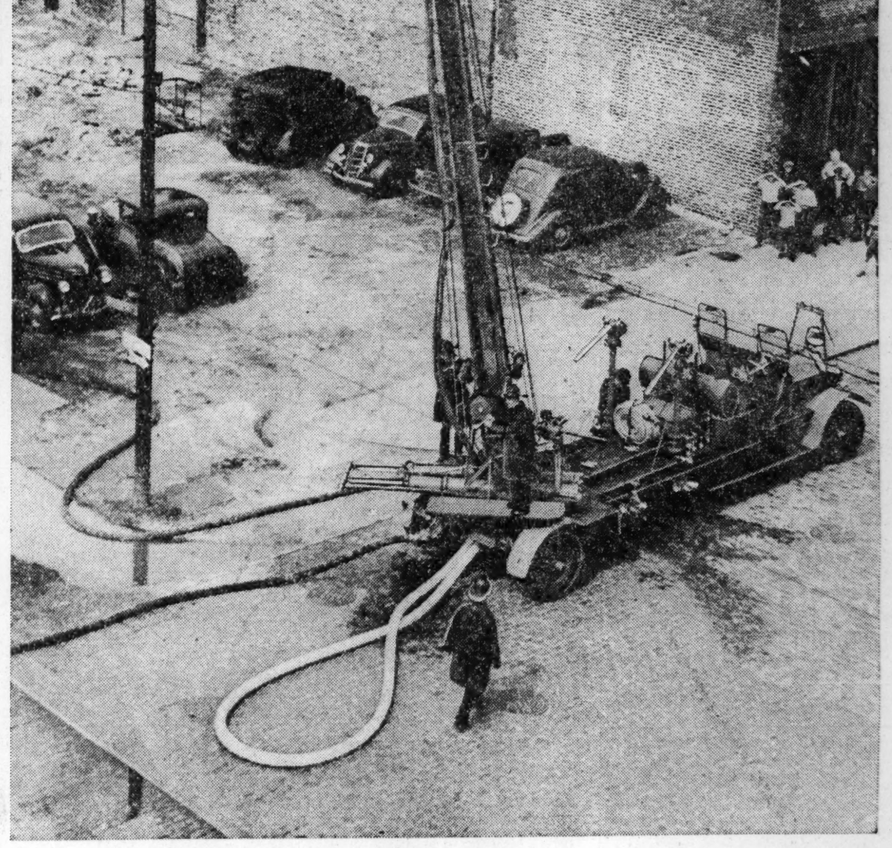
A fireman illustrating proper way to land, relaxed, in life saving net after a leap from burning building. Such leaps will be among features of thrill show at Soldiers' field Sunday.



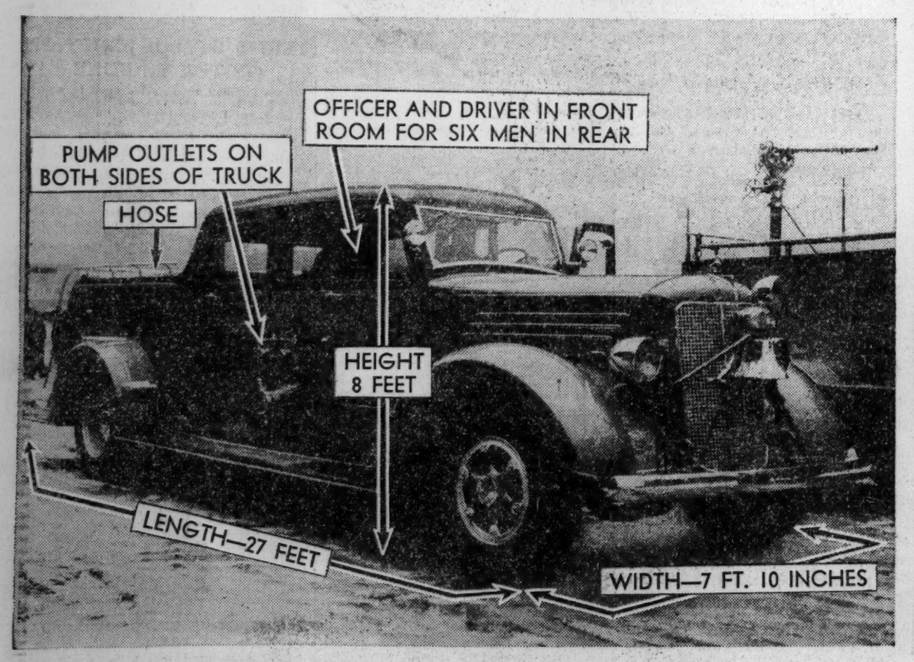
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Scaling walls by means of short pompier ladders, which are hooked over window sills.



[TRIBUNE Photo.]

A $22,000 water tower in action, its top nozzle 65 feet in air, the fireman in crow's nest 50 feet above ground. Water is sent into heart of fire through windows.



[TRIBUNE Photo.]

De luxe sedan pumper costing $18,000, largest and most modern pumper engine in world, which will lead parade of motor... machines used to battle flames.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Heart of the fire fighting system—the fire alarm office in the city hall. Operator William Killeen, at microphone, is transmitting the location of a still alarm to engine companies nearest the scene by means of loud speaker system, after signaling stations by telegraph.
